Cashier Says That Robbers Missed Shipment of Money

Only a telephone operator saw three men or more who attempted to rob the Security State Bank at Halliday, Dunn county, sometime between midnight and 4 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Blanche McLaney was awakened by the sound of a wire cut from a pole slapping against the telephone building in which she slept. Going to a window she saw one man up a pole and two others standing near by. Braving possible death she went to her switchboard and frantically tried to arouse citizens of the town.

One of the yeggs heard her, peered through a window and ordered her "to keep quiet if you know what's good for you."

"My father is here and I'll call him," she countered.

"Shut up and do it quick," the robber said.

Mrs. Delancy waited until about 4 o'clock, when the men disappeared, and then ran to homes of citizens to arouse them.

The yeggs turned off the combination dial, and hands of the safe but according to Hans Ulness, cashier of the bank, did not gain entrance to the interior.

All of the telephone, telegraph and railroad telegraph wires into Halliday were cut. The fixtures were damaged and somewhat although no explosives were fired. The total loss is covered by insurance.

Mr. Ulness declared a considerable shipment of money from Mandan was in the postoffice in Halliday and the robbers picked the wrong place.

SIMPLE FUNERAL SERVICES ARE HELD
TODAY FOR CALVIN COOLIDGE JR., IN ACCORD WITH DESIRE OF THE FAMILY

Historic East Room of the White House Is Banked With Profusion of Flowers as the Last Rites Are Held—Body to be Taken to Old Home in Vermont, For Burial Beside the Grave of Grandfather

Washington, July 9.—(By the A. P.)—Only the setting of the historic East Room of the White House with its profusion of banked flowers might distinguish the simple funeral service there today for Calvin Coolidge, Jr., from that of any other youth in his country.

The governments of nations, with his own, were permitted their wish to pay respect to the President's dead son, but because of the desires of the bereaved family simplicity ruled in every detail of arrangements.

A prayer by the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church, which the President and Mrs. Coolidge attend here, his reading of scripture and the singing of favorite hymns by a quartet was the simple rite for the late afternoon service.

Tonight the body of the youth, whose death Monday cast a shadow over the White House and brought the keenest sorrow to those who have grown to know him as a friend during the little time he had been at home there, will be taken by the President's family, now broken for the first time, to his boyhood home at Northampton, Mass. There, amid old friends, services will be held tomorrow at the Edwards Congregational Church of which Calvin was a member. Later in the day he will be laid to rest beside the grave of the President's mother at Plymouth, Vermont.

Diplomats Present

Joining the family in attendance at the White House services today were a few intimate friends, cabinet members, chiefs of diplomatic missions, justices of the supreme court and members of Congress now in the city, and high officers of the army, navy and marine corps.

To bear the body to its last resting place, six marines, assigned to the presidential yacht, Mayflower, who with six bluejackets of the yacht have served guard over the body in the East Room of the White House since yesterday, also will proceed with the party under command of Lieut. Edgar Allen Poe. The President consented to the military guard for his son when it was chosen from among those on the yacht who had become friends of his son during week-end trips, which were young Calvin's happiest times here.

Bear Up Bravely

President and Mrs. Coolidge were said to have faced the ordeal of the services today with the same fortitude with which they have borne their great sorrow. John, the elder son, who has lost an inseparable companion in Calvin's death, also was said to be showing as brave front as a boy could.

SENTENCED FOR TRAIN HOLDUP

Bowman, N. D., July 9.—Marion Stevens and a youth, aged 20, who pleaded guilty before District Judge F. T. Lembke at Hettinger to robbing several transients on a freight train near Rhome, N. D., were given two years and one year respectively in the state penitentiary. It was established that one covered the victims with a gun and the other took the money, about $19 in all.

BLACK RUST IS BEHIND IN ITS
YEARLY ATTACK

Reports Over Northwest Give Crops Better Than Even Break at This Time

NONE IN NO. DAKOTA

Expert Reports That Tour
Through the State Fails
To Show Any Rust

Minneapolis, July 9.—The Northwest grain crops are away to a flying start in their annual $50,000,000 handicap race with black stem rust, according to a statement today by the conference for the Prevention of Grain Rust, which represents agricultural interests of 13 North Central states.

The statement is based on reports of field observers of the United States Department of Agriculture, who are stationed at strategic points in the spring wheat territory.

"The first appearance of rust was from 10 days to two weeks later than usual while the cereal crops have lately been catching up to normal for this time of year," the statement said. "At present the grain everywhere seems to have an excellent chance to escape serious damage. Unless the weather from now on is unusually favorable to the spread of rust the loss this year will be only a small fraction of the average for the past seven years, which is approximately $50,000,000."

"In North Dakota and Montana, not a single sign of rust has been noted in the fields. During the first week in July a competent observer from the state college of agriculture made a trip from Fargo through the Red River Valley to Pembina, west to Devils Lake and back to Fargo without finding a trace of stem rust in any of the many fields inspected."

Reasons advanced for the excellent prospects include the cold spring which retarded the spread of rust from the barberry and the great reduction in these bushes through the eradication campaign of federal and state authorities. The destruction of some ten million bushes in the last seven years has greatly reduced the amount of initial rust inoculum.

"There are still enough barberry bushes in the spring wheat states to produce several attacks of rust when weather conditions are right," the statement says. "This is illustrated that on July 7 sixty-five barberry bushes were found at W. Martin, Minnesota. Under certain wind and weather conditions these bushes could furnish sufficient inoculum to affect grain crops in the Red River Valley, officials say."

LAW AND ORDER

AT JAMESTOWN

Militant Organization Will Cooperate With City and County Officials

Jamestown, N. D., July 9.—A militant organization to assist and cooperate with the city and county officials in the enforcement of laws and particularly the prohibition law, took initial steps in organization Monday evening at Jamestown. Representatives of some twenty-five churches, clubs and civic organizations of the city, met at the Methodist church to formulate plans by which all the laws and particularly the liquor law, could be more strictly enforced; by which public sentiment could be influenced and formed and by which the officials could be given more active support and encouragement in the enforcement of the laws.

Officials were elected, with Oscar J. Seffer, president; Fred C. Kneeland, vice-president; W. B. DeNault, secretary and Mrs. H. L. Kasper, treasurer and a meeting was set for next Monday night, July 14 at the Methodist church, at which time the officers who form the executive committee will present a constitution, set of by-laws and propose a plan of operation. "Law and order committee" was the name suggested for the association.

President Seffer called upon representatives of each organization to express personally the stand of their organization toward the purposes of the association, and each organization was pledged to do its full part in supporting the constitution and the laws of the country.

HOLD A CONFERENCE

Consider Plan By Which
Davies Plan Might be Put Into Operation

Paris, July 9. (By the A. P.)—A joint note to the allies suggesting how the different questions connected with the application of the Davies plan might be settled was drawn up at a conference between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Herriot of France, the British premier announced today.

Mr. MacDonald said the documents he had drawn up with M. Herriot constituted the joint note which explained how the Davies plan problem might be settled at the inter-allied London conference which remains fixed for July 16. He declared there was no thought of postponing the conference.

The British Prime Minister, receiving representatives of the press after his conference with the French premier, said:

"We have succeeded in making a substantial beginning toward a full accord between France and Great Britain."

Declaring there was no intention to postpone the London conference, he added, "what an effect it would produce if we postponed it even for a short time. We have invited the Americans to be present and they might think it queer if we were unable to go on with the conference at the date which was fixed for it."

TITLE MEN IN SESSION HEAR OF LAND BANK

St. Paul Institution Is Declared to be the Largest
Of Its Kind

North Dakota Title Men, in session here, were told today by John E. Martin, general counsel of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, that the bank is the largest of the land banks in the United States and the largest of its kind in the world.

In a little over seven years the bank has loaned over $110,000,000 on farms in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, Mr. Martin said. Loans made in North Dakota to October 31 last, the close of the seventh year, aggregated $35,043,130 and numbered 9,400, covering 2,301,130 acres, he said.

"The bank is owned by the farmers who have received loans," Mr. Martin said. "It is founded by the government but the funds advanced have been paid back, and it is government supervised but really a farmers' bank."

The abstractors this morning heard W. H. Pryor of Duluth, former president of the national title men's association, and held a round table discussion. Last night Governor Nestos, Mr. Pryor, Alfred Steef of Jamestown and John E. Martin addressed the title men at a banquet held in the Grand Pacific Hotel.

REV. L. G. WHITE
IS INJURED

Valley City, N. D., July 9.—Rev. LeRoy G. White, dean of the North Dakota Epworth League Institute in session at Chautauque Park, was seriously injured yesterday morning when the large bell used to call the institute together dropped on his head as he was about to ring it, cutting a three inch gash in his head. He was rushed to the City Clinic where a number of stitches were required to close the gash and up to the afternoon no serious results of the accident were expected. The injured pastor is now being cared for by a nurse on the grounds at the park. Rev. White is pastor of the Methodist church at Minot, N. D.

New York, July 9 (By the A.P.)—John W. Davis received the news of his nomination at the home of Frank L. Polk, where he has been during much of the time of the convention. He listened to the proceedings by radio. His first comment was, "Apparently I'm nominated, so that's all there is to it."

Mr. Davis asserted that he would issue a formal statement later.

GOVERNMENT'S

FOR CONFLICT

All Ready For the Final Assault Is Word of Government Forces

CASUALTIES HEAVY

Rebels Inflict Loss of Over 200 on Federals in One Day

Buenos Aires, July 9 (By the A. P.)—Latest advice from Rio de Janeiro indicated that the previous announcement of the capture by government forces of the rebel position in Sao Paulo was premature. The positions now are being bombarded by heavy artillery with airplanes cooperating. It is stated, and the official word is that "all is ready for the final assault."

The uprising has already cost several hundred lives and much property damage. After the loyal troops within the city had been defeated the arrival of government reinforcements forced the rebels to take up defensive positions in the Luz barracks and the adjoining railway station, and it is these places which are under bombardment. Previous advice indicated they had been taken by assault.

A battle between rebel forces and six hundred federal Marines and soldiers occurred Sunday at San Bernardo, near Sao Paulo. According to official accounts, the federal losses in this fight were heavy, totaling 250 dead and 200 wounded. The number of casualties in San Paulo is not known.

400 APPLY FOR CITIZENS CAMP

Fargo, July 9.—Exactly 400 North Dakotans have filed applications for attendance at the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Snelling, which opens Aug. 1. W. C. Macdonald, secretary for North Dakota, announced following the receipt of the 400th application this morning.

No more recruiting is being done in the seventh corps area since the quota for the camps in this part of the country were reported to be filled about a week ago. The authorized quota for Fort Snelling is 2,000, and for the whole corps area 5,300. The minimum strength of the camps in the whole United States is 40,000, officials declare.

West Virginian, now New York lawyer, and former ambassador to England under Wilson administration, is named democratic candidate for the presidency by the New York convention over the protest of William Jennings Bryan—McAdoo fails in effort to name Meredith of Iowa and Smith forces fail to put Underwood of Alabama over—great demonstration follows decision in New York convention today.

ADJOURN UNTIL TONIGHT
New York, July 9.—After nominating John W. Davis the Democratic convention recessed until 8:30 p. m. eastern standard time.

SENATOR WALSH FOR VICE PRESIDENT
New York, July 9.—Democratic convention would have nominated Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana, for vice-president by acclamation this afternoon had it been permitted to do so but Walsh declared the convention adjourned until 8:30 p. m. to give time for consideration.

There appeared to be no doubt he would be nominated at tonight's session.

North Dakota, voted; Walsh 5, Glass 5, on last ballot.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 9.—(By the A. P.)—John W. Davis of West Virginia was nominated for President this afternoon by the Democratic national convention today after the 103rd ballot.

The opposition of William Jennings Bryan and the attempt of William Gibbs McAdoo to deliver his strength to Meredith failed to stop him.

Beginning with this morning's balloting the movement to Davis gathered a momentum which could not be retarded and gradually but surely through the succeeding ballots the vote flopped over into the John W. Davis column as state after state either increased its offerings to him or turned over its full quota.

Bryan Opposition Fails
Bryan's opposition to Davis was swept away in the reign of Davis votes which swept over the convention. The attempt of the McAdoo forces to make E. T. Meredith of Iowa the heir to the McAdoo strength commanded a following which made only a sad third and when the Davis flood was rising so fast that all other candidates were being swept before it, Iowa, Meredith's home state, withdrew him from the contest and voted for Davis.

Then scenes of disorder swept the convention as everybody clamored for a chance to join the winning forces. When the furor was at its height Thomas Taggart of Indiana mounted a chair and moved the nomination of Mr. Davis by acclamation.

The motion was carried with a roar and Chairman Walsh shouted into the din before him: "The chair declares the Honorable John W. Davis the nominee of this convention."

Break Into Demonstration
Immediately the tired, worn and weary convention, which had been struggling in the throes of a seemingly interminable deadlock for two weeks—with the threat of going into a third—broke loose in a demonstration of joy and relief.

Immediately all the state standards which had previously been parading for other candidates—dozens of them in the midst of hard-fought battles of partisan dispute—were carried into the aisles of the convention hall while a swirling, perspiring band of delegates followed in joy and jubilation. The Montana standard was the last one out but only because there was a dispute there as to who should have the honor of carrying it into the procession.

The band swung into "Dixie." "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." "Maryland" and other airs which had been dinning into the ears of the convention in a ceaseless fusillade of music for the last two weeks.

JOHN W. DAVIS
CAREER TOLD IN BRIEF

John W. Davis was born at Clarkburg, West Virginia, April 13, 1873. He graduated from Washington and Lee University and from the law school of the university.

He was married to Julia T. McDonald June 20, 1899, who died August 17, 1900, and to Ellen G. Bassel on January 2, 1912.

He was admitted to the bar in 1895, was assistant professor of law at Washington and Lee, 1896-7, in practice at Clarkburg 1897-1913; and is now a member of the law firm of Stetson, Jennings and Russell of New York.

He was a member of the West Virginia House of Delegates in 1899, occupied prominent places in the Democratic state organization, and was elected to the 62nd and 63rd Congresses (1911-15), resigned from Congress to become Solicitor-General, August 30, 1918, remaining in that office until 1918.

He was ambassador to Great Britain 1918-1921. He was counselor of the American Red Cross 1913-1918, a member of the American delegation for conference with Germans on treatment and exchange of prisoners of war, at Berne, Switzerland, September, 1918.

He was president of the West Virginia Bar Association, Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Beta Kappa, a Mason, and belongs to numerous clubs in New York and Washington.

Governor Ritchie himself led the Maryland delegation in procession and for a convention as prolonged and hard-fought as the present one has been the demonstration for Davis was a demonstration of unity and good feeling and relief.

Davis People Happy
The Davis people, jubilant after a fight through two conventions to nominate their man, sent the leaders of their delegation headed by Mrs. Izatta Jewell down to the platform to review the procession.

They had worked hard to nominate him in San Francisco four years ago and had failed; they had worked hard here in New York and had suffered the discouragement of seeing his chances drop to almost nothing before they turned and rolled over the debris of the deadlock between Smith and McAdoo.

The crowd was happy at the prospects of having a nomination and going home and the delegates and alternates pranced along with as much vigor as if they had not been at it countless days and nights and as if they were not shy several aggregate nights of sleep.

William Jennings Bryan was asked for some comment on the nomination of Mr. Davis. He replied he had none.

"Will you make one later?" he was asked.

"I don't know," said the veteran war horse, who had taken the platform in a futile effort to stop Davis and had precipitated thereby the most spectacular row ever seen in recent years in an American convention.

Consider Plan By Which Dawes Plan Might Be Put Into Operation

Paris, July 9. (By the A. P.)—A joint note to the allies suggesting how the different questions connected with the application of the Dawes plan might be settled was drawn up at a conference between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Herriot of France, the British premier announced today.

Mr. MacDonald said the documents he had drawn up with M. Herriot constituted the joint note which explained how the Dawes plan problem might be settled at the inter-allied London conference which remains fixed for July 16. He declared there was no thought of postponing the conference.

The British Prime-minister, receiving representatives of the press after his conference with the French premier, said:

"We have succeeded in making a substantial beginning toward a full accord between France and Great Britain."

Declaring there was no intention to postpone the London conference, he added, "what an effect it would produce if we postponed it even for a short time. We have invited the Americans to be present and they might think it queer if we were unable to go on with the conference at the date which was fixed for it."

TITLE MEN IN SESSION HEAR OF LAND BANK

St. Paul Institution Is Declared to be the Largest Of Its Kind

North Dakota Title Men, in session here, were told today by John E. Martin, general counsel of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, that the bank is the largest of the land banks in the United States and the largest of its kind in the world.

In a little over seven years the bank has loaned over $110,000,000 on farms in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota. Mr. Martin said. Loans made in North Dakota to October 31 last, the close of the seventh year, aggregated $35,043,130 and numbered 9,303, covering 2,301,130 acres, he said.

"The bank is owned by the farmers who have received loans," Mr. Martin said. "It is founded by the government, but the funds advanced have been paid back, and it is government supervised but really a farmers' bank."

The abstractors this morning heard W. H. Pryor of Duluth, former president of the national title association, and held a round table discussion. Last night Governor Nestos, Mr. Pryor, Alfred Steed of Jamestown and John E. Martin addressed the title men at a banquet held in the Grand Pacific Hotel.

The injured pastor is now being cared for by a nurse on the grounds at the park. Rev. White is pastor of the Methodist church at Minot, N. D.

Mr. Davis asserted that he would issue a formal statement later.

GOVERNMENT'S FORCES READY FOR CONFLICT

All Ready For the Final Assault Is Word of Government Forces

CASUALTIES HEAVY

Rebels Inflict Loss of Over 200 on Federals in One Day

Buenos Aires, July 9. (By the A. P.)—Latest advices from Rio de Janeiro indicated that the previous announcement of the capture by government forces of the rebel position in Sao Paulo was premature. The positions now are being bombarded co-operating, it is stated, and the by heavy artillery with airplanes official word is that "all is ready for the final assault."

The uprising has already cost several hundred lives and much property damage. After the loyal troops within the city had been defeated the arrival of government reinforcements forced the rebels to take up defensive positions in the Luz barracks and the adjoining railway station, and it is these places which are under bombardment. Previous advices indicated they had been taken by assault.

A battle between rebel forces and six hundred federal Marines and soldiers occurred Sunday at San Bernardo, near Sao Paulo. According to unofficial accounts, the federal losses in this fight were heavy, totaling 250 dead and 200 wounded. The number of casualties in San Paulo is not known.

400 APPLY FOR CITIZENS CAMP

Fargo, July 9.—Exactly 400 North Dakotans have filed applications for attendance at the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Snelling, which opens Aug. 1. W. C. Macfadden, civilian aid for North Dakota, announced following the receipt of the 400th application this morning. No more recruiting is being done in the seventh corps area since the quota for the camps in this part of the country were reported to be filled about a week ago. The authorized quota for Fort Snelling is 2,000, and for the whole corps area 5,300. The minimum strength of the camps in the whole United States is 40,000, officials declare.

West Virginian, now New York lawyer, and former ambassador to England under Wilson administration, is named democratic candidate for the presidency by the New York convention over the protest of William Jennings Bryan—McAdoo fails in effort to name Meredith of Iowa and Smith forces fail to put Underwood of Alabama over—great demonstration follows decision in New York convention today.

ADJOURN UNTIL TONIGHT
New York, July 9.—After nominating John W. Davis the Democratic convention recessed until 8:30 p. m. eastern standard time.

SENATOR WALSH FOR VICE PRESIDENT
New York, July 9.—Democratic convention would have nominated Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana, for vice-president by acclamation this afternoon had it been permitted to do so but Walsh declared the convention adjourned until 8:30 p. m. to give time for consideration.

There appeared to be no doubt he would be nominated at tonight's session.

North Dakota, voted; Walsh 5, Glass 5, on last ballot.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 9.—(By the A. P.)—John W. Davis of West Virginia was nominated for President this afternoon by the Democratic national convention today after the 103rd ballot.

The opposition of William Jennings Bryan and the attempt of William Gibbs McAdoo to deliver his strength to Meredith failed to stop him.

Beginning with this morning's balloting the movement to Davis gathered a momentum which could not be retarded and gradually but surely through the succeeding ballots the vote flocked over into the John W. Davis column as state after state either increased its offerings to him or turned over its full quota.

Bryan Opposition Fails
Bryan's opposition to Davis was swept away in the reign of Davis votes which swept over the convention. The attempt of the McAdoo forces to make E. T. Meredith of Iowa the heir to the McAdoo strength commanded a following which made only a sad third and when the Davis flood was rising so fast that all other candidates were being swept before it, Iowa, Meredith's home state, withdrew him from the contest and voted for Davis.

Then scenes of disorder swept the convention as everybody clamored for a chance to join the winning forces. When the furor was at its height Thomas Taggart of Indiana mounted a chair and moved the nomination of Mr. Davis by acclamation.

The motion was carried with a roar and Chairman Walsh shouted into the din before him: "The chair declares the Honorable John W. Davis the nominee of this convention."

Break Into Demonstration
Immediately the tired, worn and weary convention, which had been struggling in the throes of a seemingly interminable deadlock for two weeks—with the threat of going into a third—broke loose in a demonstration of joy and relief.

Immediately all the state standards which had previously been parading for other candidates—dozens of them in the midst of hard-fought battles of partisan dispute—were carried into the aisles of the convention hall while a swirling, perspiring band of delegates followed in joy and jubilation. The Montana standard was the last one out but only because there was a dispute there as to who should have the honor of carrying it into the procession.

The band swung into "Dixie." "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Maryland" and other airs which had been dinned into the ears of the convention in a ceaseless fusillade of music for the last two weeks.

JOHN W. DAVIS CAREER TOLD IN BRIEF

John W. Davis was born at Clarksburg, West Virginia, April 13, 1873. He graduated from Washington and Lee University and from the law school of the university.

He was married to Julia T. McDonald June 20, 1889, who died August 17, 1900, and to Ellen G. Bassel on January 2, 1912. He was admitted to the bar in 1895, was assistant professor of law at Washington and Lee, 1896-7, in practice at Clarksburg 1897-1913, and is now a member of the law firm of Stetson, Jennings and Russell of New York.

He was a member of the West Virginia House of Delegates in 1899, occupied prominent places in the Democratic state organization, and was elected to the 62nd and 63rd Congresses (1911-15), resigned from Congress to become Solicitor-General, August 30, 1913, remaining in that office until 1918. He was ambassador to Great Britain 1918-1921. He was counselor of the American Red Cross 1913-1918, a member of the American delegation for conference with Germans on treatment and exchange of prisoners of war, at Berne, Switzerland, September, 1918.

He was president of the West Virginia Bar Association, Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Beta Kappa, a Mason, and belongs to numerous clubs in New York and Washington.

Governor Ritchie himself led the Maryland delegation in procession and for a convention as prolonged and hard-fought as the present one has been the demonstration for Davis was a demonstration of unity and good feeling and relief.

Davis People Happy
The Davis people, jubilant after a fight through two conventions to nominate their man, sent the leaders of their delegation headed by Mrs. Izatta Jewell down to the platform to review the procession. They had worked hard to nominate him in San Francisco four years ago and had failed; they had worked hard here in New York and had suffered the discouragement of seeing his chances drop to almost nothing before they turned and rolled over the debris of the deadlock between Smith and McAdoo.

The crowd was happy at the prospects of having a nomination and going home and the delegates and alternates pranced along with as much vigor as if they had not been at it countless days and nights and as if they were not shy several aggregate nights of sleep.

William Jennings Bryan was asked for some comment on the nomination of Mr. Davis. He replied he had none.

"Will you make one later?" he was asked.

"I don't know," said the veteran war horse, who had taken the platform in a futile effort to stop Davis and had precipitated thereby the most spectacular row ever seen in recent years in an American convention.

PHOTOGRAPHIC PLANES ARE ARMY'S "DEATH EYES"

By NEA Service

Davison, July 7. The "death eyes" of the United States army as a new terror to potential enemies.

Eyes that can see anything; eyes that record instantly and permanently their objects; eyes that keep watch with their glance.

Secret researches by army engineers are making the eyes of the 22 photographic sections of the air service—the most efficient and one of the most effective pieces of war machinery.

These sections are perhaps the most mobile units in the army. Should a national emergency arise, these 22 sections could be stripped for action and on the move within 12 hours.

And here is how the eyes can bring death and destruction, as proved by recent tests:

A big gun was aimed at a concealed target six miles away. Army photographers in an airplane took pictures of the target as the shots hit. The films were dropped to the ground.

The air service below developed them and in three minutes the big gun commanders saw pictures and corrected their range. The fourth shot demolished the target.

In another test, a photographic section flew to a given altitude directly above the target. The plane was above the range of the possible enemy guns. Directly over the target it gave a signal. By triangulation the ground force was able to compute the location exactly.

And now experiments are being made to develop a paper that will make pictures in milliseconds.

From an airplane a picture will be taken the instant the first shot hits and a second later a photograph of the target dropped to the commander, enabling him, another second later, to send a true shot.

Each of the 22 sections consists of a communications and two trucks, carrying all equipment, including a developing room.

STOCK CASES RULINGS MADE

Unfair Practices Are Found By Examiner

South St. Paul, Minn., July 8. Judge C. E. Mills, examiner for the department of agriculture, made a report yesterday of his findings in three stockyards cases heard here last February.

In the case of the stockyards administration of South St. Paul against the Central Co-operative Commission Association, it was held that the respondent has engaged in and used "unfair, unjustly discriminatory and deceptive practices."

In the two other cases heard by Judge Mills he recommended dismissal of the complaint against the Farmers Union Livestock company, and recommended that a cease and desist order be issued in the case of the Peoples Co-operative Commission company.

Various complaints against the Central Co-operative Commission are reviewed by the examiner who finds some of them proven and others subject to dismissal. Judge Mills recommends that the petition to intervene on behalf of the National Livestock be allowed, but that the motion to consolidate the contest of the Minnesota Pig Company, with this complaint be denied.

VET ATTACKS GEN. HINES

Argument Over Physical Examination Leads to Fight

By the Associated Press

Washington, July 8.—Brig. General Hines, director of the Veterans bureau, was involved in a fist encounter with a former service man in his office at the bureau yesterday, suffering a gash over the left eye and bruises which required medical attention. According to witnesses, the veteran who engaged in the affair was Thomas B. Deavor of Houston, Tex., who had called to protest that a medical examination made at San Antonio had injured his claim before the bureau. Deavor left immediately after the fray and officials said no charges would be filed against him.

When Deavor protested to General Hines against the report of three physicians, who had examined him, it was said, the director called in Captain C. O. Shaw, chairman of the board of appeals, and the three were going over the case when the encounter developed. Shaw, it was added, attempted to separate the two and was turned upon by Deavor, but the affair finally was quelled by Shaw, a messenger, and P. E. Raids, secretary to General Hines.

According to bureau officials, the director offered Deavor a new examination or hospitalization but the latter declined unless the examination were made in the director's office. This General Hines was said to have declined to accede to.

PLAN TO AVERT COAL FAMINE

Engineer Proposes to Cut Bill Also Through Storage

New York, July 8. (A. P.)—Danger of coal famine would be eliminated, industry stabilized, railroads relieved and the consumer's coal bill ultimately cut by seasonal storage of coal, it is asserted in the report of the Storage of Coal Committee of the American Engineering Council made public here today.

"The storage of coal," the report declares, "is essentially necessary as an aid to the solution of the national coal problem, and is an economic and practicable means of insuring an adequate supply of coal as needed."

"If each coal consumer will adopt the policy of annually purchasing coal on a uniform monthly delivery basis, there will result automatically sufficient seasonal storage to guarantee coal to the consumer as needed. Furthermore, this policy will bring about a uniform demand for coal whereby the coal producer and carrier may establish uniform and standard production and shipment schedules."

"It will also remove the evils of intermittent operation of coal mines, frequent panicky market conditions, and coal shortages due to inability of the carriers to meet peak demands."

"While this study refers primarily to industrial consumers of bituminous coal, yet householders also have a direct responsibility. Indeed the householder is in a position to aid with the least cost, because no special equipment for storing and reclaiming is required."

"The committee recommends that all coal consumers purchase their coal on an annual contract for yearly requirements with a provision that the coal be delivered monthly in equal allotments. It urges that consumers provide necessary storage facilities to meet the terms of such contracts."

A. D. Preston, employed at the United States Indian School west of the city, caught a 50-pound starfish in the Missouri River, near the Northern Pacific bridge, late yesterday.

The Human Element in Big Business

The human element is the biggest element in big business.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) was one of the first to give recognition to the welfare and rights of those who go to make up the personnel of its organization.

This Company frankly states that a large measure of its success in business is due to the fact that it has considered the human element first. This applies to its relations with consumers, competitors, stockholders and employees.

No organization in the oil industry, which is an industry of specialization, can efficiently serve the public without a trained and loyal body of workers.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) over a long period of years has built up a great organization of highly trained employees. These people are not regarded as cogs in a big machine. They are treated as human beings—co-workers with the Board of Directors in rendering an essential service to the thirty million people of the Middle West.

To relieve employees of worry, to enable them to give all their thought to their duties, and to stimulate their loyalty and interest, this Company has put into effect a number of plans.

The last of these to be made effective is known as the "Employees' Death Benefits Plan," under which this Company will pay to dependents of employees, upon the death of the latter, a sum of money ranging from $500.00, after one year of service, to $2,000.00, after ten years of service. This money will be paid wholly by the Company, irrespective of the position of the worker, and without expense to him.

In dealing with the public, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) keeps ever in the foreground the fact that in the last analysis it is dealing with men and women. Whether these men and women are inside or outside the organization makes no difference—they must be considered as the human, the only necessary part of industry.

You can't keep human nature out of business, and the bigger the business, the greater the need for proper consideration of that human element which is so important a part of it.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has converted this human element into an asset to the public, by giving the utmost stimulus to those qualities of the worker which make for loyal and intelligent service.

HEAVY RUMBLE OF WHEELS IS CIRCUS HERALD

Small Boys on Hand Early
This Morning to See Robbins Brothers Unload

WORK HANDLED FAST

The heavy rumble of the sun burst wheels on the big red circus wagons gave an early morning suggestion soon after daylight today of the arrival and the many features in store for those who attend the performances of the Robbins Brothers Circus.

The big circus with its train of twenty-five double length steel cars arrived from Wishek, also too early for the early bird, "the small boy." The few that arrived were ready to welcome it like the first were awarded with the coveted chance to see a free ticket helping out the men put the big tent. None of them carried water for the elephants, however, for the circus of today waters its elephants at some hydrant near the show grounds, and a small boy now pets his (Annie Oakley) by carrying in seat planks and running the lacing on the (Big Top).

The unloading of the big circus was accomplished by no confusion, and hardly had the splendid work horses all been harnessed and ready for the day's work, been led down the runs, the wagons started in long lines for the show grounds. The first to move were the three wagons of the commissary department together with a big water tank and in less than an hour from the time the cook house had been erected breakfast was ready for the 500 employees.

The circus is showing in the eastern part of the city. The Robbins Brothers Circus brought to Bismarck for the first time the much heralded Famous Davy Crockett Troupe of the "world's greatest" Bare-back Somersault Riders. Another feature out of the ordinary, was furnished by the Ben Shirki troupe of Arab tumblers. The flying Aerial Lloyds furnished the thriller, with a startling aerial act in which they turned many somersaults in the air from flying trapeze to trapeze. Three herds of elephants danced, played musical instruments and one of them did the shimmy. The clown made the kids and grown-ups laugh at their antics and the circus went over with a bang. The show goes from here to Jamestown.

Tuesday, July 15.

Judge H. L. Berry in Morton county district court signed the order at the application of State Attorney L. H. Connolly. The case had not previously been called due to the fact that former jurors have been busy with their work until this time. The jury which was empaneled for the spring term of court was excused subject to the call of the judge.

If Dr. Shortridge takes a change of venue from Morton county the jury will not be called; if, however, he elects to stand trial in this county the time of trial will be set by Judge Berry following the pleading and the jury summoned for duty. Attorney T. F. Murtha of Dickinson is counsel for the Flasher physician and State Attorney L. H. Connolly is prosecuting attorney.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY
Mrs. Lucy Parkin, and daughter Mrs. C. D. Cooley, and Mrs. E. Parkin of Los Angeles, and Parkin Noakes, arrived from Albuquerque, New Mexico, with the remains of Mrs. Helen Parkin Noakes who passed away Wednesday, July 2, following four years illness with tuberculosis.

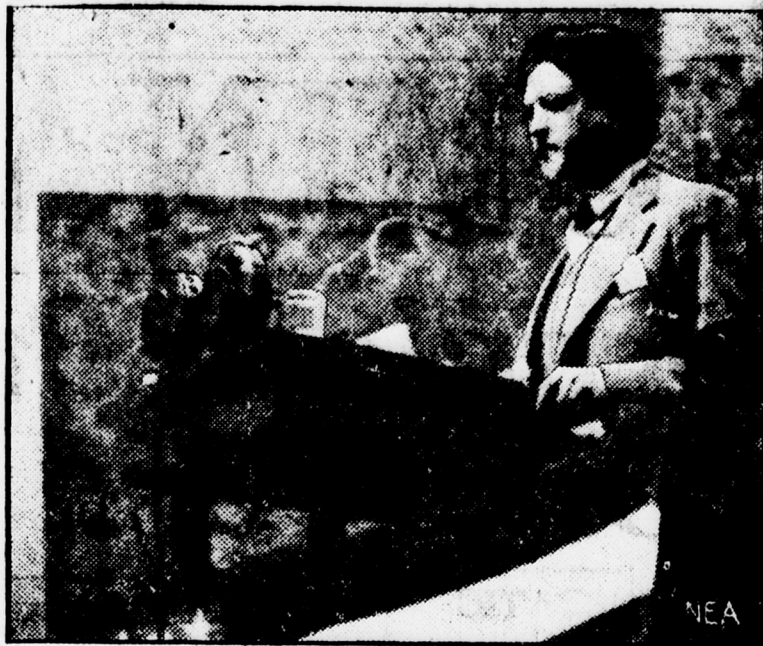

Deceased left Mandan in February 1920, for the southern city in the hopes of restoration of her health and for a time it was believed her fight had succeeded. She returned to Mandan for a few months in 1922 but was unable to stand this climate and returned to the south. Seven months ago her condition grew worse and she had been confined to her bed most of the time since, the disease eventually attacking her intestines and causing an internal hemorrhage which betokened the end.

The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the home of her mother 305 Sixth Avenue N. W., with Rev. F. H. Davenport of Christ Episcopal church, of which she was a member, officiating.

HIS FATHER'S MESSAGE

Here is Robert M. LaFollette Jr. delivering his father's message to the Conference for Progressive Political Action in Cleveland.

PLANNING THE CAMPAIGN

Robert M. LaFollette Jr. (left) and Congressman John M. Nelson of Wisconsin, Progressive leader in the House of Representatives, have a little chat during the Cleveland convention about campaign plans. Nelson will have charge of Senator LaFollette's headquarters in Chicago.

Political Orators Must Be Brief For Radio

By Harry B. Hunt
NEA Service Writer

New York, July 9.—Political spellbinders for the campaign of 1924 will have to develop a new style of oratory.

The small-time, second-rate speech-makers that heretofore have been used to fill in at the meetings in the town hall and the village crossroads will no longer play an important part in shaping public thought on the campaign issues.

The big figures in state and national politics, who can speak convincingly and authoritatively, will have vastly increased audiences and influence.

All this will be due to radio, which will be utilized by all parties to transmit their campaign arguments, as presented by their biggest spokesmen, to the most remote parts of the country.

But the old style of spread-eagle oratory, delivered in impassioned tones and with much frantic gesticulation, is not good radio oratory. Neither is the long-winded, thin speech lasting for an hour or more.

To hold a radio audience, according to a program director of Station WJZ, political orators will have to condense. The speaker who can compress his message into 15 or 20 minutes, presenting it clearly, logically and convincingly, will develop a following that will "tune in" on him whenever he is broadcasting.

The speaker, however, who by indulging in flowery rhetoric and pretty perorations, prolongs his speech to longer than half an hour, will be deserted by his audience.

It's one thing to get up and walk out of a hall when you are tired or bored by a speaker, and quite another to get off the air if he fails to interest you. The first attracts unpleasant attention, is an obvious discourtesy to the speaker, and an annoyance to others in the audience. The latter is accomplished by the speaker.

Michigan. The remains are being shipped to Devils Lake, N. D., his former home, and funeral services are to be held Wednesday morning from the Catholic church of that city.

DENTAL BOARD IN SESSION

Fargo, July 9.—Members of the North Dakota state board of dental examiners are meeting at the Waldorf hotel today for a three day session to examine 16 candidates for practice in North Dakota. Members of the board are Drs. Solon Crum, Fargo; H. W. Whitcomb, Grand Forks; W. E. Hocking, Devils Lake; H. C. Cooper, Abercrombie and C. F. Sweet, Minot.

An opportunity for persons who wish to have dental work done free of charge will be given at this time according to Dr. Crum, the specialty at this time being gold fillings. The fillings must be for the front teeth unless they are small and then they will be put in half way back. Twelve or 15 patients will be needed and examination will be made at 2 p. m. tomorrow at 73 Edwards building. The purpose is to give the examiners an opportunity to see what the candidates for practice can do.

simple twisting of a dial, quickly, easily, effectively.

Because radio makes it possible to widen the audience of any given speaker to include the whole country, large radio audiences, Popenoe believes, will be sought after even more eagerly than large public gatherings.

Radio popularization of a few effective speakers, together with the occasional nation-wide broadcasting of addresses by the presidential candidates themselves, rather than the indiscriminate haranguing of hit-and-miss spellbinders who confuse instead of clarify the issues, is proposed as the most promising program for "selling" the respective candidacies "by air."

All this will be due to radio, which will be utilized by all parties to transmit their campaign arguments, as presented by their biggest spokesmen, to the most remote parts of the country.

Story Tangle Has to Be Knotted in a Hurry

If it had not been for the short story and its parallels in the other arts, there could be no question about the merits of this sort of orderly arrangement of facts, says Archibald MacLeish in the North American Review. But the short story made popular an entirely different model of display. The art of the short-story writer consisted in laying out something called the plot, which was a sort of intricate human tangle, and then magically unspooling the knot just before it choked the persons of the tale. The trick was to get the knot tied before any one saw how easily it could be undone. And that required a great many rapid gestures and a considerable amount of distracting noises in the first few sentences. So you had stories beginning with the echo of a scream which had been stifled to the left of the first paragraph. "My God!" gasped pretty little Nausicaa. "Never of Pride's Crossing, sitting up quite straight in her little bed. Plump—you're in it. What on earth made pretty little Nausicaa Never curse? And before you find out, or here you discover that you never will find out, the seeming tangle has been neatly caught and your fingers are working anxiously at the threads. Or you have stories which begin with a deliberate and brutal assault upon intelligence. You read that "Leslie was born upon a midnight bench in Madison square at the age of three-and-twenty." Well—really—you protest. And then you are in over your head.

No Immediate Danger of Sun Becoming Old

The age of the sun has been fixed at something between 2,000,000,000 and 3,000,000,000 years, Prof. Walter Nernst, after researches, announced at a meeting in Berlin, says the Detroit News. The estimates are based in part on the rate of decomposition of radioactive elements and in part on deductions from Einstein's theory of relativity concerning the relation between mass and energy. Early estimates set the age of the sun as low as 10,000,000 years, but geologists showed this was too short to allow for the erosion and other changes observed in the crust of the earth since it became solid. The radioactive decomposition of uranium to lead is a more accurate cosmic clock, and this indicates that the solid crust of the earth has existed for at least one and one-half billion years. According to Nernst the sun, while getting past middle age, is still good for 300,000,000 years, after which a life such as we know it will cease upon the earth.

Dogs in Warfare

Egyptian paintings of 3,000 years ago depict the greyhound as not dissimilar to the bound of later years. The mosaics and sculptures of the Greeks and Romans show the dog of the day to have been a noble-looking animal. That they were also fierce would appear probable from a mosaic unearthed in ancient Pompeii, which shows a snarling watch dog in spiked collar, fastened with a chain. On the block of pavement appeared the familiar words "Cave canem." The Gauls made use of trained dogs in their early encounters with the Indians of the Americas.

Just Give It Time

A woman of artistic pretensions invited an expert to view an escutcheon which she had picked up at rather a high figure. "An antique," she explained. He responded politely to the call and went through the motions of making a scientific examination, viewing the inlay, the varnish and the alleged wormholes through a magnifying glass. Then he shook his head and told her he feared she had been misled, that it was the bit of furniture, but not an antique.

The collector took it calmly enough. "No matter," she said cheerfully, "it will be before I finish payments on it."—Collier's.

Conscientious Edna

A motorist speeding through a country neighborhood killed a hen. He stopped and pressed a $2 bill into the hand of little Edna who was on her way to neighbor Reed's. Edna ran and told her mamma of her good fortune. "Put the money in your bank and I will cut the hen's head off so we can eat it," said Edna thoughtfully. "As long as we have the money we had better let the Reed's eat the hen. It was their hen."—Boston Transcript.

Old-Time Frumty

Few people have frumty offered them as food in these modern days, although there was a time when it was served on tables in many lands and was popular. It was made by boiling whole wheat bulled in water until it was soft, then draining, adding salt, sweetening and nutmeg flavor, or to make what was known as Somersetshire Frumty, there were added currants, raisins and eggs. Food specialists would be glad to see it brought back for the dietetic advantage of getting the whole wheat grain for food.—Ohio State Journal.

Ants' "Home-Brew"

Ants manufacture their own home-brew in their digestive canal by the action of yeasts on the milky juices which they extract from aphids or plant lice, which they keep for that purpose, according to Prof. Paul Lindner, chief of the fermenting industry institute in Berlin.

"This sum spent annually to counteract the ravages of corrosion and rust will give a fair idea of the total bill the world is paying for the slow decay of metals used in industrial work, which are not protected against rust," he declared. "It is a vital matter because the yearly waste is making the iron ore resources of the world exhaustible within a measurable distance of time."

CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS RURAL SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Madison, Wis., July 9. (A. P.)—Lightening the burdens of persons whose lives are spent in the isolated sections of the nation is one of the paramount issues to come before the General Conference on Rural (Church and Social Work, beginning here in June at the University of Wisconsin. The conference is being conducted by the college of agriculture and is designed to bring together all elements striving to solve the problems of the rural districts.

The general program provides for the consideration of economic, social, logical and recreational problems of rural community life; boys' work, organization, health, auto-mechanics and general agricultural subjects. Delegates from virtually every state representing the Roman Catholic, Episcopal and Lutheran communions, as well as church bodies associated in the National Home Mission Council and numerous civic organizations, will attend.

PLAN TO SEND WORKERS HERE

The National Parent Teachers Association has chosen North Dakota as a field for work next fall, to make a demonstration of what can be done by the association in rural communities, in securing closer cooperation between parents and teachers, according to Miss Minnie J. Nielson, state superintendent. The Association will send five workers here in October, paying their expenses, to organize new associations and develop those now in existence. The American Child Health Association last year placed three workers in the state for a considerable period without expense to the state, she added.

INCREASES IN SALARIES TO BE LIMITED

To Occur Where Promises Previously Made in N. D. Educational Institutions

BUDGETS GONE OVER

Few increases in salaries will be made in the state educational institutions for the ensuing year, it was said today by members of the board of administration after it had completed the approval of most of the budgets of educational institutions. The only increases, according to Chairman R. B. Murphy, are where promotions have been made or definite agreements entered into with instructors before this year.

"The fact that all of the institutions anticipate still further increases in enrollment during the coming year has made the task of adjustment of budgets quite difficult," said Chairman Murphy. "Only the willingness of the institutional heads and the cooperation on the part of the instructors has made it possible to keep the expense within the estimated income. Several institutions report a loss of some excellent instructors through tempting offers made by eastern institutions of learning. The fact that the inroads have not been great, the board believes is due to the fine attitude shown by instructors generally who have appreciated the present financial stress of the state."

The budgets made up for educational institutions contain the estimates of receipts and disbursements for the year ahead. Receipts are made up of legislative appropriations made by the assembly of 1923, receipts from interest and income and institutional collections. The principal task of the board of administration is to see that disbursements do not exceed the estimated incomes as deficit appropriations are no longer countenanced by the legislature.

The revenues from interest and income and institutional collections are somewhat of a variable quantity, the former depending on the promptness of payments of interest and principal on school land contracts and loans, and the latter depending on the student enrollment. The board, according to Chairman Murphy, is much pleased with the efforts on the part of institutional heads to keep expenses down to a minimum.

While the law does not require penal and charitable institutions to budget annually, the board of administration will follow the same practice with respect to these institutions, it is announced.

Very few changes in facilities have been made.

MASQUERADED FOR 7 YEARS

Miss Ruth Bundy was Known as "Walter" Bundy

Marshalltown, Ia., July 9.—Ruth Bundy, 33, for seven years has masqueraded as a man, known as "Walter" Bundy, is in the county jail following her arrest yesterday at Rhodes, charged with threatening to commit a public offense.

Three years ago at Rhodes "Walter" Bundy was married to Miss Elizabeth West of Rhodes and the wife claims that during the time they have lived together she never had discovered her supposed husband's deception. Members of Miss Bundy's family, however, say they have been aware of the deception since the seven years that she had masqueraded as a man. Miss Bundy has been employed as a farm and track laborer. It is said that men with whom she has worked never have suspected her sex.

Deadlock Broken On 103rd Ballot

Releases Delegates

New York, July 9.—William G. McAdoo early this morning released his delegates as the Democratic national convention went into its 100th ballot at the beginning of its third week.

Earlier in the session Governor Smith had informed the convention through Franklin D. Roosevelt, that as soon as Mr. McAdoo signified his withdrawal from the contest he would do so also.

Mr. McAdoo signified his action in a letter to Chairman Walsh of the convention.

The text of Mr. McAdoo's letter follows:

"Dear Senator Walsh:

"I am profoundly grateful to the splendid men and women who have with such extraordinary loyalty supported me in this unprecedented struggle for a great cause.

"The convention has been in session two weeks and appears to be unable to make a nomination under the two thirds rule. This is an unfortunate situation, imperiling party success.

"I feel that if I should withdraw my name from the convention I should betray the trust confided in me by the people in many states which have sent delegates here to support me.

"And yet I am unwilling to contribute to the continuation of a hopeless deadlock. Therefore, I have determined to leave my friends and supporters free to take such action as in their judgment may best serve the interests of the party.

"I have made this fight for the principles and ideal of progressive

SUFFERED TEN YEARS WITH STOMACH TROUBLE

Then Tanlac Brought Complete Relief.

"Tanlac has brought me good health and I don't believe the medicine will ever disappoint anyone who takes it as it should be taken, recently said Mrs. C. A. Warner, 202 S. 1st St., Aberdeen, S. D.

"For ten years, I suffered from stomach trouble and two years ago when I first took Tanlac, I was on the verge of a complete breakdown. My food simply would not digest and I was terribly distressed with acids, gases and bloating. My kidneys also bothered me and my limbs and feet were so swollen that I suffered miserably trying to get about.

"After taking a few bottles of Tanlac, I began to eat and digest everything. The swelling went away, that constant, worn-out feeling left me and I felt wonderfully strong and well. I am still enjoying good health and look upon Tanlac as my standard remedy."

ditionally the name of Governor Smith.

"I am here," he said, "to make a very brief and very simple statement on behalf of Governor Smith. The candidate for whom I speak now leads in the poll in this convention. We have advanced his nomination as the representative of great Democratic principles. But the future of the Democratic party rises far above the success of any candidate.

"After nearly a hundred ballots, it is apparent to him and to me that the forces behind him and the forces behind Mr. McAdoo cannot be amalgamated. For the sake of the party therefore Governor Smith authorizes me to say that when Mr. McAdoo's name has been withdrawn from this convention, Mr. Smith's name also will be withdrawn.

"And as one of Governor Smith's supporters I can say that until Mr. McAdoo does withdraw Governor Smith's supporter will continue to vote for Governor Smith."

Painting on Spider's Web Is Found

Berlin, July 9. (A. P.)—What is regarded as one of the most singular works of art in existence is now in the possession of a Berlin dealer. It is a painting, 6 x 4 inches, executed on a spider web and preserved by being clamped between two plates of glass, so that one can examine it on both sides. The scene depicted is that of a happy family sitting together.

As an interesting side-piece to the painting the artist also preserved a spider web on which he had completed part of the picture when it tore. This second web shows traces of his having tried in vain to patch up the tear.

There is nothing to tell when the spider-webs were painted.

I. W. W. "ENVOYS" BEGIN RIDING TRAINS SEEKING NEW MEMBERS

The I. W. W. also expect to profit by an expected big harvest in North Dakota, according to railroad detectives, in Bismarck today.

The red card organization has opened its headquarters in Fargo again and is sending its "ambassadors" from Fargo to various centers of the state to enroll members in the organization, and to put out the seasonal red cards.

A few days ago a large number of hoboes were on a freight train near Carrington, the detective said. A large negro I. W. W. was acting as "conductor" on the freight train, telling the hoboes to "step up and get your card," taking their $2.00 and being checked by a "secretary" at his elbow. One who did not take out a red card was thrown off the train.

The emissaries of the red flag organization also are said to be on the outskirts of several cities, where the hobos congregate. They are expected to attempt to set wages in the harvest fields.

The large number of idle men coming from other states already is an indication of a plentiful harvest labor supply, however, detectives say.

SCHOOL BOARD OFFICERS ALL ARE REELECTED

Annual Organization Meeting Is Held at Which Lenhart Is Renamed President

The city school board, holding its annual organization meeting last night, reelected officers as follows: President—A. P. Lenhart. Clerk—Richard Penwarden. Treasurer—John A. Larson.

Because of the absence of Superintendent H. O. Saxvik, who is quarantined in his home, the board discussed chiefly matters pertaining to the condition of various buildings. It received a petition from the janitors stating that the cut in their pay to $90 a month left them less than a living wage and set out figures saying that janitors in other buildings in the city were paid more than this amount. Definite action was not taken on the petition.

The board also discussed the question of putting a steel ceiling in the assembly room of the high school, and additional prices for this work will be asked. The board also plans to paint the walls in this room. It was decided to replace the wooden platform at the entrance of the North Ward school with a cement platform.

The transfer of Miss Floy Vetter from the first grade of the Will school to the third grade of the Richholt school was approved.

Geo. Will, who succeeded D. T. Owens on the board, was officially seated.

Figures before the board showed that $7,081.30 was charged to various other school districts and individuals for tuition to the high school, at $54 per pupil per year.

CITY'S "WHITE WAY" CHANGED

New System Is to be Used in Bismarck

Work of changing Bismarck's "white way" system has been started by the street department, with E. K. Skeels aiding in supervising the work.

Three of the five cluster lights on the poles are to be dismantled, leaving a horizontal beam with two lights, one on either end.

The cluster system has proved unsatisfactory for many reasons. Most cities, now installing "white way" systems, are using a single pole, with a high candle power light. The five-light system here has been very expensive, small boys having a penchant for breaking globes, and the wind doing much damage. The recent hail storm destroyed so many lights that the cost of replacing all of them would have been heavy.

The city commission has experimented with several poles, changing the arrangements of the lights, and finally closed the plan of leaving one cross-bar on the poles. Higher candle power lights will be used if necessary.

MISS NIELSON RETURNS FROM NATIONAL MEET

Miss Minnie J. Nielson, state superintendent of public instruction, has returned from Washington, D. C., where she attended the annual meeting of the National Education Association. There were 35 North Dakota people there from 16 counties. Miss Nielson said, and they gathered at a North Dakota luncheon. Miss Nielson presided at one of the four general sessions and acted in her capacity of president of the National Council of Administrative Women in Education and secretary of the Department of State Superintendents.

The convention, composed of 5,000 delegates, heard President Coolidge deliver an address July 4 to 30,000 people in a Washington high school stadium.

HEAVY RUMBLE OF WHEELS IS CIRCUS HERALD

Small Boys on Hand Early This Morning to See Robbins Brothers Unload

WORK HANDLED FAST

The heavy rumble of the sun burst wheels on the big red circus wagons after an early morning suggestion on after daylight today of the arrival and the many features in store for those who attend the performances of the Robbins Brothers Circus.

The big circus with its train of twenty-five double length steel cars arrived from Wishek, also too early or the early bird, "the small boy," he few that arrived were ready to climb it like the first were awarded with the coveted chance to earn a free ticket helping out the men at the big tent. None of them carried water for the elephants, however, for the circus of today waters elephants at some hydrant near the show grounds, and a small boy now gets his (Annie Oakley) by carrying in seat planks and running he loaves on the (Big Top).

The unloading of the big circus was accomplished by no confusion, and hardly had the splendid work horses all been harnessed and ready for the day's work, been led down the runs, the wagons started in long times for the show grounds. The first to move were the three wagons of the menagerie department together with a big water tank and in less than an hour from the time the truck house had been erected break fast was ready for the 500 employees.

The circus is showing in the eastern part of the city.

The Robbins Brothers Circus brought to Bismarck for the first time the much heralded Famous Day support Troupe of the "world's greatest" Bare-back Somersault Riders. Another feature out of the ordinary was furnished by the Ben Shrike troupe of Arab tumblers. The flying Aerial Lloyds furnished the thriller, with a startling aerial act in which they turned many somersaults in the air from flying trapezes to trapezes. These heroes of elephants danced, played musical instruments and one of them did the shimmy. The clown made the kids and grown-ups laugh at their antics and the circus went over with a bang.

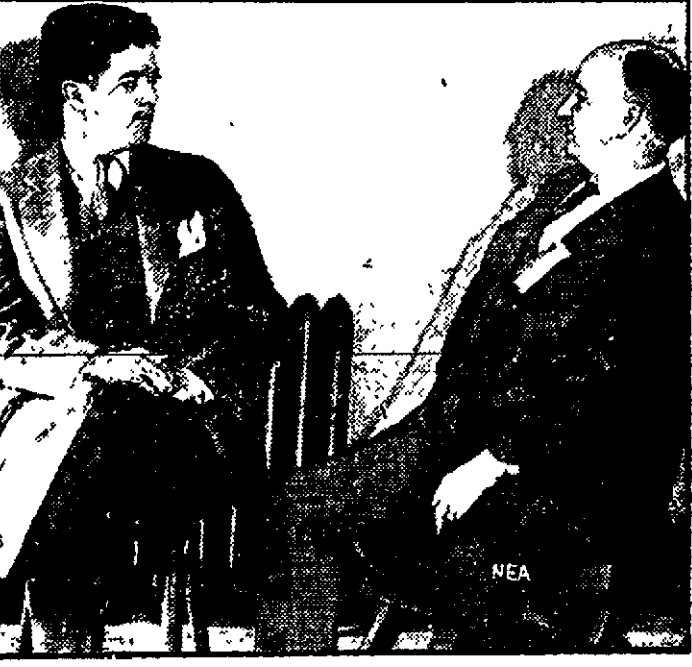

The show goes from here to Jamestown.

Political Orators Must Be Brief For Radio

By Harry B. Hunt
NEA Service Writer

New York, July 9.—Political spellbinders for the campaign of 1924 will have to develop a new style of oratory.

The small-time, second-rate speech-makers that heretofore have been used to fill in at the meetings in the town hall and the village crossroads will no longer play an important part in shaping public thought on the campaign issues.

The big figures in state and national politics who can speak convincingly and authoritatively, will have vastly increased audiences and influence.

All this will be due to radio, which will be utilized by all parties to transmit their campaign arguments, as presented by their biggest spokesmen, to the most remote parts of the country.

But the old style of spread-eagle oratory, delivered in impassioned tones and with much frantic gesticulation, is not good radio oratory. Neither is the long-winded, thin spun speech lasting for an hour or more.

To hold a radio audience, according to C. B. Popenoe, program director of Station WJZ, political orators will have to condense. The speaker who can compress his message into 15 or 20 minutes, presenting it clearly, logically and convincingly, will develop a following that will "tune in" on him whenever he is broadcasting.

The speaker, however, who by indulging in flowery rhetoric and pretty perorations, prolongs his speech to more than half an hour, will be deserted by his audience.

It's one thing to get up and walk out of a hall when you are tired or bored by a speaker, and quite another to get off the air if he fails to interest you. The first attracts undivided attention, as an obvious discourtesy to the speaker, and an annoyance to others in the audience. The latter is accomplished by the speaker.

ton, Mich. The remains are being shipped to Devils Lake, N. D., his former home, and funeral services are to be held Wednesday morning from the Catholic church of that city.

DENTAL BOARD IN SESSION

Fargo, July 9.—Members of the North Dakota state board of dental examiners are meeting at the Waldorf hotel today for a three day session to examine 16 candidates for practice in North Dakota. Members of the board are Drs. Solon Crum, Fargo; R. W. Whitcomb, Grand Forks; W. E. Hocking, Devils Lake; H. C. Cooper, Abercrombie and C. F. Sweet, Minot.

An opportunity for persons who wish to have dental work done free of charge will be given at this time according to Dr. Crum, the specialty at this time being gold fillings. The fillings must be for the front teeth unless they are small and then they will be put in half way back. Twelve or 15 patients will be needed and examination will be made at 2 p. m. tomorrow at 72 Edwards building.

The purpose is to give the examiners an opportunity to see what the candidates for practice can do.

The list of candidates is as follows: R. O. Bork, Fargo; H. J. Dakin, Minneapolis; L. W. Ender, Rice Lake, Wis.; Glenn Platt, Stanley; J. T. Hanson, Minot; John J.

Story Tangle Has to Be Knotted in a Hurry

If it had not been for the short story, and its parallels in the other arts, there could be no question about the merits of this sort of orderly arrangement of facts, says Archibald MacLeish in the North American Review. But the short story made popular an entirely different model of display. The art of the short-story writer consisted in laying out something called the plot, which was a sort of intricate human tangle, and then magically unpulling the knot just before it choked the persons of the tale. The trick was to get the knot tied before any one saw how easily it could be undone. And that required a great many rapid gestures and a considerable amount of distracting noises in the first few sentences. So you had stories beginning with the echo of a scream which had been stifled to the left or the first paragraph, "My God," gasped pretty little Nausicaa Nevers cursey. And before you find out, or before you discover that you never will find out, the seeming tangle has been neatly caught and your fingers are working anxiously at the threads. Or you have stories which begin with a deliberate and brutal assault upon your intelligence. You read that "Leahla was born upon a midnight bench in Madison square at the age of three-and-twenty." Well—really—you protest. And then you are in over your head.

No Immediate Danger of Sun Becoming Old

The age of the sun has been fixed at something between 2,000,000,000 and 3,000,000,000 years, Prof. Walter Nernst, after researches, announced at a meeting in Berlin, says the Detroit News. The estimates are based in part on the rate of decomposition of radioactive elements and in part on deductions from Einstein's theory of relativity concerning the relation between mass and energy.

Early estimates set the age of the sun as low as 10,000,000 years, but geologists showed this was too short to allow for the erosion and other changes observed in the crust of the earth since it became solid. The radioactive decomposition of uranium to lead is a more accurate cosmic clock, and this indicates that the solid crust of the earth has existed for at least one and one-half billion years. According to Nernst the sun, while getting past middle age, is still good for 400,000,000 years, after which it will burn with form on its surface and life such as we know it will cease upon the earth.

Dogs in Warfare

Egyptian paintings of 3,000 years ago depict the greyhound as not dissimilar to the bound of later years. The mosaics and sculptures of the Greeks and Romans show the dogs of antiquity to have been noble-looking animals. That they were also fierce would appear probable from a mosaic unearthed in ancient Pompeii, which shows a snarling watch dog in spiked collar, fastened with a chain. On the block of pavement appeared the familiar words "Cave canem." The Gauls made use of trained dogs in war. So did the Spaniards, in their early encounters with the Indians of the Americas.

Just Give It Time

A woman of artistic pretensions invited an expert to view an esoteric which she had picked up at rather a high figure.

"An antique," she explained.

He responded politely to the call and went through the motions of making a scientific examination, viewing the object through the various alleged whorls through a magnifying glass. Then he shook his head and told her he feared she had been misled, that it was a fine bit of furniture, but not an antique.

The collector took it calmly enough.

"No matter," she said cheerfully, "it will be before I finish payments on it."—Collier's.

Conscientious Edna

A motorist speeding through a country neighborhood killed a hen. He stopped and pressed a $2 bill into the hand of little Edna who was on her way to neighbor Reed's. Edna ran and told her mamma of her good fortune.

"Well," said her thrifty mother, "put the money in your bank and I will cut the hen's head off so we can eat it."

"Perhaps, mamma," said Edna thoughtfully, "as long as we have the money we had better let the Reeds eat the hen. It was their hen."—Boston Transcript.

Old-Time Frumenty

Few people have frumenty offered them as food in these modern days, although there was a time when it was served on tables in many lands and was popular.

It was made by boiling whole wheat bulled in water until it was soft, then draining, adding milk, sweetening and nutmeg flavor, or to make what was known as Somersetshire Frumenty, there were added currants, raisins and eggs.

Food specialists would be glad to see it brought back for the dietetic advantage of getting the whole wheat grain for food.—Ohio State Journal.

Ants' "Home-Brew"

Ants manufacture their own home-brew in their digestive canal by the action of yeasts on the milky juices which they extract from aphids or plant lice, which they keep for that purpose, according to Prof. Paul Lindner, chief of the fermenting industry institute in Berlin.

"This sum spent annually to counteract the ravages of corrosion and rust will give a fair idea of the total bill the world is paying for the slow decay of metals used in industrial work, which are not protected against them," he declared. ## CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS RURAL SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Madison, Wis. July 9. (A. P.)—Lightening the burden of persons whose lives are spent in the isolated sections of the nation is one of the paramount issues to come before the General Conference on Rural Church and Social Work, beginning here in June at the University of Wisconsin. The conference is being conducted by the college of agriculture and is designed to bring together all elements striving to solve the problems of the rural districts.

The general program provides for the consideration of economic, sociological and recreational problems of rural community life, local organization, health, auto-mechanics and general agricultural subjects. Delegates from virtually every state representing the Roman Catholic, Episcopal and Lutheran communions, as well as church bodies associated in the National Home Mission Council and numerous civic organizations, will attend.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

(Established 1873)

THE WHITE HOUSE IN GRIEF

The hearts of citizens in all parts of the nation will go out to President and Mrs. Coolidge in their bereavement over the death of their younger son. To read of the life of the parents is to know the deep and abiding love they had for their boy, their faith and anxiety for his future, their purpose to lead him into the right paths of life. The first interest of the Coolidges has always been their home; their deepest concern that of their two sons. It was their desire to shield their young sons from the exaggerations of mind which might result from a pampered life in the first house of the land that caused them to send their boys back to the homely farm of their grandfather in Vermont for their vacation last year and to send them away from Washington for their schooling. They have been to their boys the companions and advisers that parents ought to be, and the demeanor of their sons reflected their training.

Burdened as the President must be by the cares of state, the blow must strike especially hard. To him and to Mrs. Coolidge goes the genuine condolence of all citizens.

AGAIN THEY MAKE GOOD

The American athletes who are carrying the stars and stripes in the Colombes stadium in France have made a glorious beginning. Already they have put the United States far in the lead in the competition for world honors. The American team represents the cream of the country's athletes. They will carry with them the rousing cheer of their fellow countrymen in their fight in clean, sportsmanlike competition for world honors.

JUICY

Last year the American people ate more meat than ever before. The average during 1923 was nearly 170 pounds for every man, woman and child, or almost half a pound a day. A European, accustomed to being able to afford meat only once or twice a week, will consider this proof-positive of great national prosperity.

As far as the health is concerned, meat should be eaten sparingly in hot weather. That's when it does its damage.

PENSIONS

With the soldier bonus a certainty, talk is developing about pensions to World War veterans later.

Here is the precedent: It was not until 25 years after the end of the Civil War that pensions were paid to all disabled vets. And it was 17 more years before pensions were offered to all honorably discharged vets 62 years or older. Pensions for World War veterans may come later on.

CHAUTAUQUA

Fifty years ago John Heyl Vincent, a Methodist bishop, started the first chautauqua—at Chautauqua, N. Y. Now it's a national system, with orators and musicians and educators by the thousands.

The Chautauqua is one of the most remarkable movements of our civilization. It's a summer affair. And to get people to use their brains and exercise their intellectual "deafness" in sweltering weather is not far from being the eighth wonder of the world. This summer 22 different Chautauqua circuits are in operation.

SPEAKING OF HAPPINESS

Marguerite Clark, once a famous and petite star of the screen—the only real rival Mary Pickford ever had—has written an engaging little story about how she found happiness. It was, in brief, when she gave up her movie stardom, married Harry P. Williams, in Louisiana, and settled down to raise—chickens, dogs and flowers.

Babies? Marguerite does not mention them as identified with her scheme of joy, strange to say. And yet no normal woman has yet found the fullness of true happiness, no home has attained that completeness that its name implies, until there are babies to bosom and house.

It isn't mere sentiment that these words voice, but it is expression of that law of nature out of which comes motherhood, the greatest, loveliest thing in a human world.

The love of a dog is fine, Marguerite, and flowers make fragrant and colorful surroundings, but neither one nor both can possibly supply the beauty and great happiness of life that it is given only to woman to know and feel, in the flesh of her flesh—a baby.

FLYING

Soon you'll be able to fly by muscle power, no motor required. So predicts Wolterre, the German engineer.

He doesn't expect the flying machine to be a glider limited in range. Rather, he thinks, it will be propelled by a bicycle. Such a machine is possible. But it wouldn't sell widely in our country. People are too lazy and too thrifty with their time. Reflects how quickly they turned from the man-propelled bicycle to motor-propelled auto.

SPEED

A New York banker "warns workers to increase production and do away with unnecessary restrictions if the present high wages and high standards of living are to be maintained.

It is an old story, but true. The standard of living can be no higher than the sum total of production. We can't use more than we produce, any more than we can eat more eggs than the chickens lay.

Anything that restricts production lowers the standard of living.

Only a great state would own up to its faults. Texas admits she leads in producing spinach.

The sad thing about being cheerful is so many people make it for just plain ignorance.

CANADA'S PLACE IN THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH

Premier Mackenzie King said recently, during a debate on foreign relations in the Canadian parliament:

"As I see it, looking to the future of Canada, and having regard to the kinds of discussion that have taken place, there are at least three possible avenues of constitutional development: one leading to complete independence, another leading to annexation with the United States, another leading to a more clearly recognized nationhood within the community of nations comprising the British Empire—the British Commonwealth, by whatever term you wish to call it."

He went on to express the opinion that the future of Canada would be happiest and best, most prosperous and in every way most to the good, "if the development is along the line on which it has been thus far—toward a fuller recognition of national status within the community of free nations which comprise the British Empire."

As Canada had no part in the proceedings of the conference, the Dominion government took the position that, in this instance, the parliament of Canada should not be asked to ratify the treaty.

It is fully conceded by the Dominion prime minister that, according to international law, Canada is bound by Great Britain's ratification of the Lausanne treaty; but Canada's exclusion from the conference leaves the Dominion parliament free to decide, from the imperial point of view, how far Canada shall be bound by any obligation that may arise out of the treaty itself.

Because of the Canadian premier's reference to other possibilities than the development of nationhood within the commonwealth of British nations, some people abroad seem to have misunderstood the Canadian government's position on the Lausanne treaty. But it can safely be said that the desire of Premier Mackenzie King is to strengthen, rather than weaken, the good relations between Canada and Great Britain and the other nations under the British flag.—Christian Science Monitor.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

All the wood folk and meadow folk and barnyard folk came flocking to see Mister Zip's park in the woods where Nancy and Nick were working.

Such a busy place as it was! With the merry-go-round going ting-a-ting-a-ting, and the roller coaster going rattling, rattling, rattling, and the ferris and the chute-the chutes going zing-g-g-splash! and all the people shrieking delightedly as the little boats hit the water—it was a noisy place.

"Well, that's a go and see what it's all about," said Mrs. Cracknuts to Daddy Cracknuts. "Here, Daddy, take your gold-headed cane."

"Does it cost anything?" asked Daddy, taking out his old leather pocketbook which looked pretty fat.

"It says 'cents' here," said Mrs. Cracknuts. "But I guess we can afford that; I've saved 30 cents on the housework this week by doing my own washing and ironing. I do think I ought to have a holiday."

"Well, that's a go," said Daddy kindly. "All right, we'll go and see everything we can see for 30 cents. That's a lot of money."

Away went Daddy Cracknuts and his wife to the park and by and by they came to the big gate with the sign over it which said "Happy Go Lucky Park. Come In!"

Daddy bought two tickets from Mister Zip at the ticket window, and then Mister Zip turned a turnstile which only let one person squeeze in at a time.

"Hello, Daddy!" cried Nick. "I thought you would be coming soon, Mrs. Cracknuts! Will you have an ice cream cone or a glass of lemonade or a pack of peanuts?"

"Peanuts!" exclaimed Daddy. "That sounds pretty good. I believe I'll have a go."

Here Mrs. Cracknuts pulled her husbands sleeve and whispered something into his ear.

"No, I guess not," said Daddy hastily. "You see we only have 10 cents. I mean peanuts are actually but for both of us. Come on, Ma."

So away went the old squirrel gentleman and his wife to see all the sights of Happy Go Lucky Park. Pretty soon they came to the ferris wheel. You know what that is, a big wheel as high as a church steeple that goes round over so slowly, carrying people in funny little seats to see the view.

Only Mister Zip's ferris wheel was only about as high as a corn stalk, for Happy Go Lucky Park was for very little people.

The Woodchuck boys had just been up for a ride when Daddy and his wife came along.

"Jimenezers, you ought to go up in the ferris wheel," cried Wobby Woodchuck. "You can see the whole world nearly from the top. I'm still dizzy."

Mrs. Cracknuts pulled Daddy's sleeve again and whispered, "Why, yes, I guess we can take a ride." said Daddy. "Five cents a ride! All right, I'll take two tickets."

Nancy helped them on.

Brides Start Married Life By Air Flight

London, July 9. (A. P.)—Honey-moon trips to the continent by air seem to be the fashion which is rapidly growing, and the swift and exhilarating flight across the channel has now become recognized as an ideal way of starting married life. In nearly every case these trips seem to have been the thought of the bride, and it has been noticed that she is invariably the least nervous of the two when waiting for the airplane at the Croydon air station.

FABLES ON HEALTH BREATHE REGULARLY

Having become interested in breathing exercises, Mr. Jones began to inquire more deeply into the effect obtained from deep, rhythmic breathing.

And, among other things, he found this out:

When an ordinary breath is taken something like 10 per cent of the lung content is changed with each breath. When a deep breath is taken the entire lung is forced into action, and an immediate stimulant is given to the liver and abdominal circulation of the blood.

This, in turn, has the helpful result of setting into action any stagnant blood in those two regions, causing it to be oxygenated. Blood pressure is favorably influenced and persons of high emotional tendencies can be benefited by a systematic course in deep and rhythmic breathing.

Breathing should be deep and slow, carried on rhythmically. Some oriental races have worked out an interesting method to insure evenness of breath.

They press a finger to the side of the nose, closing one nostril and breathing through the other; then reversing to the other nostril.

While doing this it may be noted that the sound of breathing becomes audible and attention to this sound of air makes it possible to note whether the breathing is irregular.

HOKUM—PLAIN HOKUM, BUT COMEDY DELIGHTS JUNGMEYER ANYHOW

By Jack Jungmeyer
NEA Service Writer

Hollywood, July 9.—"The Self-Made Failure," featuring Lloyd Hamilton and Ben Alexander, is a collection of most of the old gags and hoary humor at which folks have laughed since pictures first began to move.

But after some of the high meat and rare confections we've been served lately by solemn screen chefs, this old-fashioned hash concocted by J. K. McDonald, producer, is most toothsome.

The comedy, first to give Lloyd Hamilton seven reels of ludicrous leeway, toys with hick-town melodrama based on mistaken identity. Hamilton is a sentimental, whimsical tramp into whose keeping a dying crony has placed his son, Ben Alexander.

The tramp is accepted by the manager of a sulphur springs resort as a long-expected masseur upon whom further patronage depends.

He and his ward become personages in the town, stumble upon guilty secrets of the hotel proprietor who has robbed a poor old lady of her property, and blunder to happiness for all who deserve it, including themselves, after some "threescore

She is also particularly bent on having her own way with little John, and seemed very much put out when she arrived home and found that I had been rocking him to sleep.

The first night when she put him to bed in the dark, I nearly went mad he screamed so. I thought he was going to burst a blood vessel, but she would not allow me to go near him, and John agreed with her, although it was sure that he had not whether she followed his advice or not.

GOOD OLD DAYS THE BUNK

By Albert Apple

There seems to be a contest among some of the railroad engineers, to see which can start his train with the most violent jerk when pulling out of a station. Especially at night, rousing the passengers as soon as they get "nicely asleep."

Defective equipment probably is the alibi. But cheer up, travelers. They had the same trouble over 60 years ago. Comes to light a faded copy of rules and regulations issued March 1, 1852, by the Western & Atlantic Railway Rule 6:

"In connecting and in starting with his train, the engineer will be exceedingly careful in the management of the throttle, so that the cars may not be injured or the passengers annoyed by the sudden violence of the start."

Life was not so rushed in those days. Conductors on the Western & Atlantic were ordered not to leave a station without sending to the postoffice for the mail.

Trains lingered at stations from 10 to 60 minutes. It was a single-track line. Frequently trains going in opposite directions would meet, the telegraph not yet having been installed. And apparently a free-for-all fight between the train crews, to settle the matter of which should back up, was not uncommon. The regulations were very strict about admonishing engineers against interfering while the conductors reached an agreement.

Engines in those days burned cordwood. Coal was to come later. It was along about that time that hard coal was used only for paving Pennsylvania roads. No one suspected that it would burn—until a blacksmith absent-mindedly shoveled some of it into his forge.

Travel was none too comfortable. Pullman had a wild dream of ease for passengers. When he put out his first sleeping car, it was so crude, that the porter used hatchet and nails in making up the berths. Enthusiastic guests on that eventful trip had bought a gold-headed cane to be presented to Pullman the next morning. After riding all night in his sleeper, they had changed their minds. He never got the cane.

The gent who began calling them "the good old days" was born later. He didn't live through the past—which looks better at a distance. Future generations will look back pityingly at our most luxurious devices and call them crude.

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO PRISCILLA BRADFORD

My dear Priscilla—Leslie and John celebrate their wedding anniversary next Friday, and Leslie has been kind enough to say that I might invite you, my dear Priscilla. I hope you will delay your return home until after that event.

I hope, my dear, that you did not take the little altercation between John and Leslie the other day as of any great moment. I thought at first that John had no right to find fault with Leslie for bobbing her hair, but thinking it over, I think you are right in your suggestion that Leslie should have waited until she had spoken to John about it, whether she followed his advice or not.

Make Delicious Berry Jam in 15 Minutes

Better and Actually Costs Less than when "Boiling-down Method"—Ann Proctor

wonderful is this product. I did (Mrs. (Surrey)) that in only two years' time over five million women have adopted its use.

All real and jelly making with Certo is as simple as two and two make four. Anyone who will follow a simple Certo recipe can now make any kind of jam and jelly in a few minutes or minimally a couple. No more long hours over a hot stove to boil down your jelly. No more spoiled batches of jam and sugar because your jelly will not "jell." Tears and disappointment, a common experience in jelly time, are now changed to smiles and enthusiasm. The new method eliminates all the drawbacks of all the failures it does away with and gives superior quality.

The illustrations show how easy it is just three simple steps etc. that you boil the fruit and add only one minute with Certo to the long, boiling-down method formerly used.

Jelly is therefore made at the time that used to be boiled away. That's why Certo makes one half more jam or jelly with the same amount of fruit at less expense per jar. That is also why your jam and jelly made with Certo has a superior color and flavor. More sugar is used in the Certo method simply to make a jam or jelly of the fruit and flavor that used to be boiled away. The amount of sugar in each glass of jam is the same in both methods.

Make a lot of jam and jelly for your family this year. Start making jam with strawberries. Everybody loves strawberry jam. No home ever has too much of it. As a condiment on bread etc., or on ice cream, puddings or fruit salads, jam is more tasty. Get some jam and fruit the kind with the best flavor, and use this recipe for

STRAWBERRY JAM

Crush about 2 quarts fine berries in separate portions, and each berry is mashed. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into large kettle, add 7 level cups of the sugar and mix well. Boil berries, fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil berries for one full minute, remove from fire and strain in bottle to leave 1 1/2 cups Certo. From time jam is taken off fire allow to stand not over 5 minutes by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime, skim and stir occasionally to cool slightly. Then pour quickly.

This is the recipe for Raspberry, Blackberry or Dewberry Jam.

Remember Certo is pure fruit pulp in the concentrated form so highly endorsed by magazine and newspaper cooking editors, government authorities and food experts. Certo contains no gelatine or preservative, and jam or jelly made with it keeps indefinitely. Any grocer will supply you with Certo and a recipe book attached. Get some now while strawberries are plentiful. You'll be happy when you use Certo.

June Losing Caste Among Brides

June is losing its prestige. It isn't dedicated to orange blossoms, hope chests and old shoes anymore. At least not in Burleigh county, where only ten licenses to marry were issued during the month of June.

And lest anyone should delude himself into continuing to think that June is the month of brides, through attributing the surprising inertia of Cupid last month to the fact that 1924 is Leap Year, it becomes necessary to record that last year also there were issued only ten licenses during June.

In former years the county judge used to buy three extra fountain pens June 1, with demands for 18 to 25 licenses before June 30, but now he can get along with the same old pen he uses in January.

SMART AND SERVICEABLE

Here are two frocks that have smartness and style but have at the same time a great capacity for service. They are by no means beyond the skill of the home dress-maker. Both are cut on straight lines and rely upon embroidery for their trimming. The one at the left uses cross-stitch designs effectively, their crude colors giving it a suggestion of the peasant costume, while the one at the right depends upon a double row of dots in the same color on each side of the front. It is often possible by means of embroidery to redeem a very ordinary dress that you buy ready made and make it distinctive and different.

How to Make Delicious Strawberry Jam in 15 Minutes

"Looks Better, Tastes Better and Actually Costs Less than when Made by Old Boiling-down Method"—Ann Proctor

You can do it easily—with never a failure. And the result will be the most delicious strawberry jam you ever tasted—at less cost per glass than ever before.

A nationally-known jelly maker has found the way to extract pectin, a substance found in some fruits in varying amounts which makes the "jelly" or set when boiled with sugar, and then to refine and concentrate it for convenient use in every home. So wonderful is this product, called Certo (Sure-Jell) that in only three years' time over five million women have adopted its use.

All jam and jelly making with Certo is as simple as "two and two make four." Anyone who will follow a simple Certo recipe can now make any kind of jam and jelly in a few minutes at minimum expense. No more long hours over a hot stove to boil-down your jelly—no more spoiled batches of fruit and sugar because your jelly will not "jell." Tears and disappointments, a common experience at jelly time, are now changed to smiles and enthusiasm. The new Certo method eliminates all the worry and all the failures, takes less work and gives superior quality.

The illustrations show how easy it is—just three simple steps. Note that you boil the fruit and juice only one minute with Certo—not the long, boiling-down method formerly used. Jelly is therefore made of the juice that used to be boiled away. That's why Certo makes one-half more jam or jelly with the same amount of fruit or at less expense per glass. That is also why your jam and jelly made with Certo has a superior color and flavor. More sugar is used in the Certo method—sugar is simply to make a jam or jelly of the fruit and flavor that used to be boiled away. The amount of sugar in each glass is the same in both methods.

Make a lot of jam and jelly for your family this year. Start in now with strawberries. Everybody loves strawberry jam. No home ever has too much of it. As a spread on bread, etc., or on ice cream, puddings, or fruit salads, nothing is more tasty. Get some Certo—pure fruit—jelly with the best flavor, and use this recipe for

STRAWBERRY JAM.
Crush about 2 quarts ripe berries in separate portions, so that each berry is mashed. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into large kettle, add 7 level cups (3 lbs) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for one full minute, remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle (about 1 cup) Certo. From time jam is taken off fire allow to stand not over 5 minutes by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime, skim, and stir occasionally to cool slightly. Then pour quickly.

Use same recipe for Raspberry, Blackberry or Dewberry Jam. Remember Certo is pure fruit pectin—the concentrated pectin so highly endorsed by magazine and newspaper cooking editors, government authorities and food experts. Certo contains no gelatine or preservative, and jam or jelly made with it keeps indefinitely. Any grocer will supply you with Certo and a recipe book attached. Get some now while strawberries are plentiful. You'll be happy when you use Certo.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

THE WHITE HOUSE IN GRIEF
The hearts of citizens in all parts of the nation will go out to President and Mrs. Coolidge in their bereavement over the death of their younger son. To read of the life of the parents is to know the deep and abiding love they had for their boy, their faith and anxiety for his future, their purpose to lead him into the right paths of life. The first interest of the Coolidges has always been their home; their deepest concern that of their two sons. It was their desire to shield their young sons from the exaggerations of mind which might result from a pampered life in the first house of the land that caused them to send their boys back to the homely farm of their grandfather in Vermont for their vacation last year and to send them away from Washington for their schooling. They have been to their boys the companions and advisers that parents ought to be, and the demeanor of their sons reflected their training.

Burdened as the President must be by the cares of state, the blow must strike especially hard. To him and to Mrs. Coolidge goes the genuine condolence of all citizens.

AGAIN THEY MAKE GOOD
The American athletes who are carrying the stars and stripes in the Colombes stadium in France have made a glorious beginning. Already they have put the United States far in the lead in the competition for world honors. The American team represents the cream of the country's athletes. They will carry with them the rousing cheer of their fellow countrymen in their fight in clean, sportsmanlike competition for world honors.

JUICY
Last year the American people ate more meat than ever before. The average during 1923 was nearly 170 pounds for every man, woman and child, or almost half a pound a day. A European, accustomed to being able to afford meat only once or twice a week, will consider this proof-positive of great national prosperity.
As far as the health is concerned, meat should be eaten sparingly in hot weather. That's when it does its damage.

PENSIONS
With the soldier bonus a certainty, talk is developing about pensions to World War veterans not until 25 years after the end of the Civil War that pensions were paid to all disabled vets. And it was 17 more years before pensions were offered to all honorably discharged vets 62 years or older.
Pensions for World War veterans may come later on.

CHAUTAUQUA
Fifty years ago John Heyl Vincent, a Methodist bishop, started the first chautauqua—at Chautauqua, N. Y. Now it's a national system, with orators and musicians and educators by the thousands.
The Chautauqua is one of the most remarkable movements of our civilization. It's a summer affair. And to get people to use their brains and exercise their intellectual faculties in sweltering weather is not far from being the eighth wonder of the world. This summer 22 different Chautauqua circuits are in operation.

SPEAKING OF HAPPINESS
Marguerite Clark, once a famous and petite star of the screen—the only real rival Mary Pickford ever had—has written an engaging little story about how she found happiness. It was, in brief, when she gave up her movie stardom, married Harry P. Williams, in Louisiana, and settled down to raise—chickens, dogs and flowers.
Babies? Marguerite does not mention them as identified with her scheme of joy, strange to say. And yet no normal woman has yet found the fullness of true happiness, no home has attained that completeness that its name implies, until there are babies to bosom and house.
It isn't mere sentiment that these words voice, but it is expression of that law of nature out of which comes motherhood, the greatest, loveliest thing in a human world.
The love of a dog is fine, Marguerite, and flowers make fragrant and colorful surroundings, but neither one nor both can possibly supply the beauty and great happiness of life that it is given only to woman to know and feel, in the flesh of her flesh—a baby.

FLYING
Soon you'll be able to fly by muscle power, no motor required. So predicts Wolterreck, the German engineer.
He doesn't expect the flying machine to be a glider limited in range. Rather, he thinks, it will be propelled by a bicycle. Such a machine is possible. But it wouldn't sell widely in our country. People are too lazy and too thrifty with their time. Reflects how quickly they turned from the man-propelled bicycle to motor-propelled auto.

SPEED
A New York banker "warns workers to increase production and do away with unnecessary restrictions if the present high wages and high standards of living are to be maintained."
It is an old story, but true. The standard of living can be no higher than the sum total of production. We can't have more than we produce, any more than we can eat more eggs than the chickens lay.
Anything that restricts production lowers the standard of living.
Only a great state would own up to its faults. Texas admits she leads in producing spinach.
The sad thing about being cheerful is so many people make it for just plain ignorance.

CANADA'S PLACE IN THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH

Premier Mackenzie King said recently, during a debate on foreign relations in the Canadian parliament:

"As I see it, looking to the future of Canada—and having regard to the kind of discussion that have taken place, there are at least three possible avenues of constitutional development: one leading to complete independence, another leading to annexation with the United States, another leading to a more clearly recognized nationhood within the community of the British Empire, or the British Commonwealth, by whatever term you may wish to call it."

He went on to express the opinion that the future of Canada would be happiest and best, most prosperous and in every way most to the good, "if the development is along the line on which it has been along thus far—toward a fuller recognition of national status within the community of free nations which comprise the British Empire."

Sir Robert Borden, a former Conservative premier, did much to advance this new status for Canada during the war, and at the peace conference at Versailles Canadian representatives signed the peace treaty and the Canadian parliament subsequently ratified it. At the Lausanne conference, between representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Turkey, with some other powers participating, the only British representatives were Lord Curzon, secretary of state for foreign affairs, and Sir Horatius Plunkett, British high commissioner at Constantinople. Canada received no invitation to send a representative.

As Canada had no part in the proceeding, of the conference, the Dominion government took the position that, in this instance, the parliament of Canada should not be asked to ratify the treaty. It is fully conceded by the Dominion prime minister that, according to international law, Canada is bound by Great Britain's ratification of the Lausanne treaty; but Canada's exclusion from the conference leaves the Dominion parliament free to decide, from the imperial point of view, whether Canada shall be bound by any obligation that may arise out of the treaty itself.

Because of the Canadian premier's reference to other possibilities than the development of nationhood within the commonwealth of British nations, some people abroad seem to have misunderstood the Canadian government's position on the Lausanne treaty. It is safe to say that the desire of Premier Mackenzie King is to strengthen, rather than loosen, the good relations between Canada and Great Britain and the other nations under the British flag.—Christian Science Monitor.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

All the wood folk and meadow folk and barnyard folk came flocking to see Mister Zip's park in the woods where Nancy and Nick were working.

Such a busy place as it was! With the merry-go-round going ting-ting-ting, and the roller coaster going rattle, rattle, roar, and the ferris and the chute and the chutes going zing-zing-zing, and all the people shouting and laughing as the little boats hit the water—it was a noisy place.

"Well, just have to go and see what it's all about," said Mrs. Cranknuts to Daddy Cranknuts. "Here, Daddy, take your gold-headed cane." "Does it cost anything?" asked Daddy, taking out his old leather pocketbook which looked pretty flat. "It says on the bills 'Admission 10 cents,'" said Mrs. Cranknuts. But it cost 30 cents to get into the house work by doing my own washing and ironing. I do think I ought to have a holiday."

"Well, that's so, Samantha," said Daddy kindly. "All right, we'll go and see everything we can see for 30 cents. That's a lot of money." Away went Daddy Cranknuts and his wife to the park and by and by they came to the big gate with the sign over it which said "Happy Go Lucky Park. Come In!"

Daddy bought two tickets from Mister Zip at the ticket window, and then Mister Zip turned a turnstile which only let one person squeeze in at a time.

"Hello, Daddy!" cried Nick. "I thought you would be coming soon. Mrs. Cranknuts! Will you have an ice cream cone or a glass of lemonade or a pack of peanuts?" "Peanuts!" exclaimed Daddy. "That sounds pretty good. I'll have a—"

Here Mrs. Cranknuts pulled her husband's sleeve and whispered something into his ear. "No, I guess not," said Daddy hastily. "You see we only have 10 cents. I mean peanuts are awfully hot for both of us. Come on, Nick. So away went the old squirrel gentleman and his wife to see all the sights of Happy Go Lucky Park.

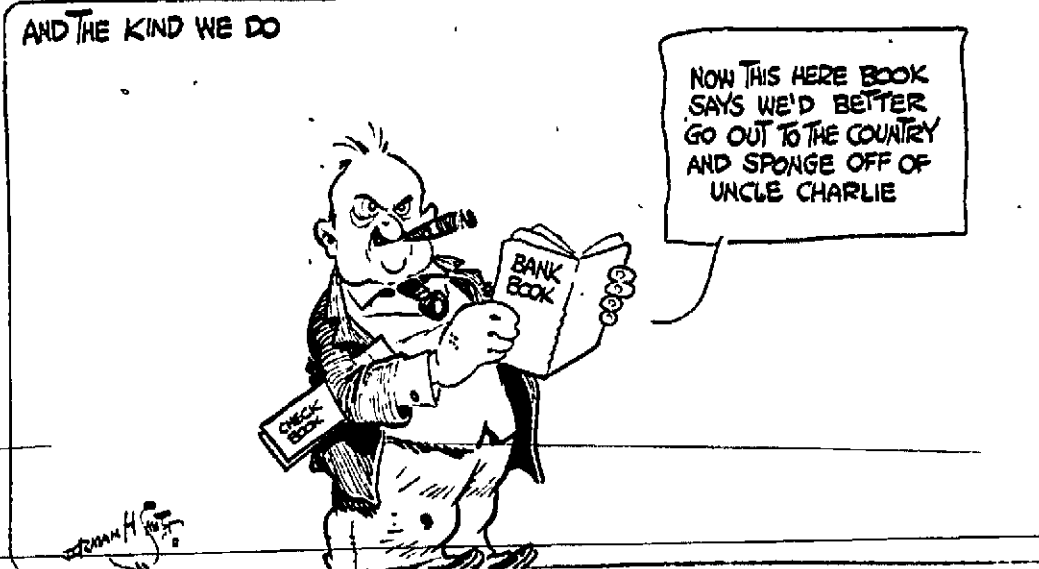

Pretty soon they came to the ferris wheel. You know what that is, a wheel as high as a church steeple that goes round ever so slowly, carrying people in funny little seats to see the view.

Only Mister Zip's ferris wheel was only about as high as a corn stalk, for Happy Go Lucky Park was for very little people.

The Woodchuck boys had just been up in the tree when Daddy and his wife came along.

"Jimineers, you ought to go up in the ferris wheel," cried Wobbly Woodchuck. "You can see the whole

FABLES ON HEALTH—BREATHE REGULARLY

Having become interested in breathing exercises, Mr. Jones began to inquire more deeply into the effort obtained from deep, rhythmic breathing.

And, among other things, he found this out:
When an ordinary breath is taken something like 10 per cent of the lung content is changed with each breath. When a deep breath is taken the entire lung is forced into action and an immediate stimulation is given the liver and abdominal circulation of the blood.

This, in turn, has the helpful result of setting into action any stagnant blood in those two regions, causing it to be oxygenated. Blood pressure is favorably influenced and persons of high emotional tendencies can be benefited by a systematic course in deep and rhythmic breathing.

They press a finger to the side of the nose, closing one nostril and breathing through the other; then reversing to the other nostril.

While doing this it may be noted that the sound of breathing becomes audible and attention to this sound of air makes it possible to note whether the breathing is irregular.

HOKUM—PLAIN HOKUM, BUT COMEDY DELIGHTS JUNGMEYER ANYHOW

By Jack Jungmeyer
NEA Service Writer

Hollywood, July 9.—"The Self-Made Failure," featuring Lloyd Hamilton and Ben Alexander, is a collection of most of the old gags and hokey hokum at which folks have laughed since pictures first began to move.

But after some of the high meat and rare confections we've been served lately by solemn screen chefs, this old-fashioned hash concocted by J. K. McDonald, producer, is most toothsome.

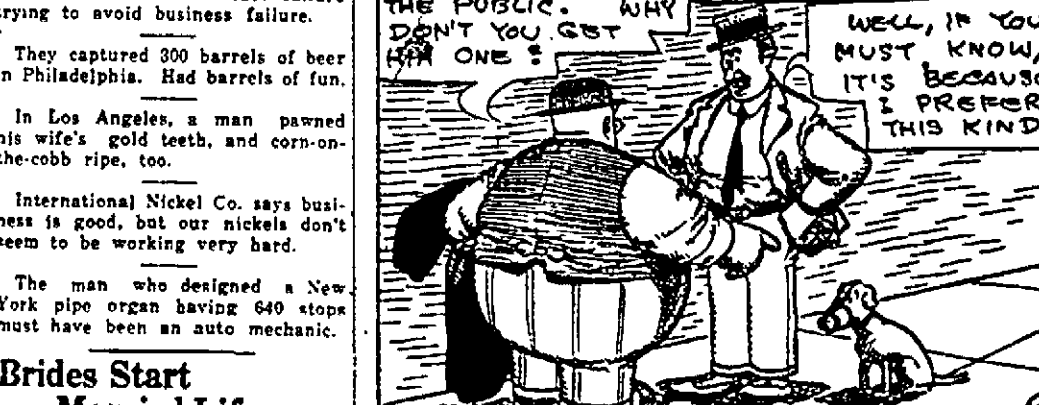

The comedy, first to give Lloyd Hamilton seven reels of ludicrous leeway, toys with hick-town melodrama based on mistaken identity. Hamilton is a sentimental, whimsical tramp into whose keeping a dying crony has placed his son, Ben Alexander.

The tramp is accepted by the manager of a sulphur springs resort as a long-expected masseur upon whom further patronage depends.

He and his ward become personages in the town, stumble upon guilty secrets of the hotel proprietor who has robbed a poor old lady of her property, and blunder to happiness for all who deserve it, including themselves, after some threecore

GOOD OLD DAYS THE BUNK

By Albert Apple

There seems to be a contest among some of the railroad engineers, to see which can start his train with the most violent jerk when pulling out of a station. Especially at night, rousing the passengers as soon as they get "nicely asleep."

Defective equipment probably is the alibi. But cheer up, travelers. They had the same trouble over 60 years ago. Comes to light a faded copy of rules and regulations issued March 1, 1862, by the Western & Atlantic Railway Rule 6:

"In connecting and in starting with his train, the engineer will be exceedingly careful in the management of the throttle, so that the cars may not be injured or the passengers annoyed by the sudden violence of the start."

Life was not so rushed in those days. Conductors on the Western & Atlantic were ordered not to leave a station without sending to the postoffice for the mail.

Trains lingered at stations from 10 to 60 minutes. It was a single-track line. Frequently trains going in opposite directions would meet, the telegraph not yet having been installed. And apparently a free-for-all fight between the train crews, to settle the matter of which should back up, was not uncommon. The regulations were very strict about admonishing engineers against interfering while the conductors reached an agreement.

Engines in those days burned cordwood. Coal was to come later. It was along about that time that hard coal was used only for paving Pennsylvania roads. No one suspected that it would burn—until a blacksmith absent-mindedly shoveled some of it into his forge.

Travel was none too comfortable. Pullman had a wild dream of ease for passengers. When he put out his first sleeping car, it was so crude, that the porter used hatchet and nails in making up the berths. Enthusiastic guests on that eventful trip had bought a gold-headed cane to be presented to Pullman the next morning. After riding all night in his sleeper, they had changed their minds. He never got the cane.

The gent who began calling them "the good old days" was born later. He didn't live through the past—which looks better at a distance. Future generations will look back pityingly at our most luxurious devices and call them crude.

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN FRESCOTT TO PRISCILLA BRADFORD

My dear Priscilla—Leslie and John celebrate their wedding anniversary next Friday, and Leslie has been kind enough to say that I might invite you, my dear Priscilla. I hope you will delay your return home until after that event.

I hope, my dear, that you did not take the little altercation between John and Leslie the other day as of any great moment. I thought at the time that John had no right to find fault with Leslie for bobbing her hair, but thinking it over, I think you are right in your suggestion that Leslie should have waited until she had spoken to John about it, whether she followed his advice or not.

I am finding out, my dear, that the young women of this generation, however, are very independent. Leslie is a very sweet girl, but she does not always defer to John's wishes in the same way that I used to defer to John's father's wishes. She is also particularly bent on having her own way with little John. Your husband was always ready to sleep, and I am quite sure, Leslie, if you had a child of your own, you would not be able to forego that hour of the day when a mother is happiest, that hour when she has her babe in her arms.

"Oh, I didn't do that," I said innocently. "I undressed him and rocked him to sleep myself." Leslie shut her mouth with a click of her teeth, and I could feel that she was trying to keep "Tom" saying "Your husband was always ready to sleep, and I am quite sure, Leslie, if you had a child of your own, you would not be able to forego that hour of the day when a mother is happiest, that hour when she has her babe in her arms."

"You certainly should be sorry for him, Mother, as it is all your fault. Babies learn very quickly. At that age they are completely self-centered little animals, and their physical likes and dislikes are all that they understand. I do not see yet why you should go into the room and take little Jack up after Sarah had put him to bed."

"Oh, I didn't do that," I said innocently. "I undressed him and rocked him to sleep myself." Leslie shut her mouth with a click of her teeth, and I could feel that she was trying to keep "Tom" saying "Your husband was always ready to sleep, and I am quite sure, Leslie, if you had a child of your own, you would not be able to forego that hour of the day when a mother is happiest, that hour when she has her babe in her arms."

"You forgive me, Mother. Prescott said Leslie crisply, "It is not that I think perhaps she should not be so selfish if he had been brought up scientifically." (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

hearty laughs (counted at a preview). Part of the burden of retribution upon villainy falls to the dog Cameo, a splendid runner in the chores of righteousness.

All the stock characters of home-spun comedy are on hand to help or hinder the worthy but ragged hero in his commendable endeavors—a nice old grandma, a poet, a sweet, innocent girl, the town constable, the beautiful siren.

Nothing highbrow here to choke back a fellow's risibles. Just plain hokum, predigested. The kind of fun anyone may read who runs.

The piece comes to riotous peak when a parcel of bathing beauties from the big city dedicate the new sulphur plunge to the avid appreciation of the male wheelchair brigade, many of whom fall into the pool in their excitement.

And if there are in Hollywood a more ravishing lot of nymphs than are presented in "The Self-Made Failure," my eyesight can no longer be depended upon.

Hamilton has never been more whimsically comic. Others in the cast are Patry Ruth Miller, Matt Moore, Sam De Grass, Mary Carr, Dan Mason and Chuck Reiner—as fine an aggregation as ever joined hands to do a simple picture of entertainment," as Producer McDonald modestly acclaims it.

Excerpt from Rupert Hughes' talk to Federated Clubwomen at their recent convention in Los Angeles: "The greatest power in the modern world could be the motion picture. It could say almost anything. But it is allowed to say almost nothing. To take this greatest of languages and bind it with chains, in every direction is not to promote morals and to improve the race, but to develop hypocrites and restore universal ignorance."

Garth Hughes, now playing a vaudeville comedy by Joseph Jackson, announces that upon completing this tour he will retire permanently from the screen to spend the rest of his years in Florence, Italy.

Joseph Henabery, Lasky director, will make Rodolph Valentino's next picture, an untitled Rex Beach story, at the Long Island Paramount studios.

Von Stroheim has his picture, "Greed," which will probably be shown in 12 reels by Goldwyn Studios cut down to about 20 reels after months of rigorous labor and heroic slashing.

"Lightnin' Only Summer Show "Lightnin'," which comes to the Auditorium here on July 16, is the only show which will appear at the Auditorium this summer, according to Manager Vesperman. The next show billed is "Little Jessie James" on September 25.

team from the second division to the top a mere flash in the pan?

Can the club keep it up and bring to Washington its first American league pennant?

Baseball fans the country over, Washington in particular, are debating these questions, wondering what the future holds forth for Manager Stanley Harris and his pennant contenders.

Ten years ago the Boston Braves started the baseball world by not only winning the National League pennant, but also in capturing the world series in four straight games from the supposedly invincible Athletics.

In the sport world the so-called miracles happen about every 10 years. Possibly the Washington club of 1924 will surpass the baseball world as did the Braves of 1914. None of the experts doped the Braves to win 10 years back. In the spring predictions for the 1914 race in the American League none of the wise men of baseball gave the Nationals much consideration as a pennant possibility.

Regardless of where the Washington club finishes this year, the great showing of the team has added much color to the American League race and stimulated interest in baseball.

The high position of the Washington club with the race half over is deserved. The team has played heads-up, snappy baseball, and taken advantage of good pitch-

Manager Harris has handled his club well, imbued it with a fighting spirit and has created the desire to win. The club is giving the boy manager its best at all times. Not a shirker on the team.

Seoul, July 9. (A. P.)—Unrest is increasing in Korea and rebellious elements, inclining to bolshevism and communism, are growing in strength, according to a statement issued recently by the Korean government-general here.

The statement says the Japanese authorities in Korea have good reason to fear insurgency and bolshevism will develop into a serious danger within the next few years, and that the Japanese army and gendarmerie in the peninsula and the guards along the northern frontier.

The outstanding development in this connection, the statement declares, has been a move to unify numerous local bodies, ostensibly labor or religious associations, for the purpose of propagating socialism or bolshevism there. The Japanese authorities have listed 171 such organizations, and ordered the dissolution of the majority of these.

Just What He Asked

One day a man who was interested in social work went into a tenement district and, wishing to see a certain man, but having only a general idea as to where he lived, approached a small boy for information. "My boy," he said, "can you show me where Mr. Linkovitch lives?" "Yes, sir," was the quick reply of the boy, smiling a tip. "Come right with me, sir." With this the boy entered an adjacent doorway and started to climb the difficult stairs. Up four flights he went, the visitor breathlessly following, and finally paused at an open door. "This is the floor," said the boy, wistfully looking for the coin. "Mr. Linkovitch lives in there." "Looks as if we had had hard luck," remarked the visitor, peering into the room. "Mr. Linkovitch doesn't appear to be here." "No, sir," was the rejoinder of the boy. "That was him settin' down on the front doorstep where we came in."

German Orphan
Girls To Study
Domestic Science

Lankwitz, Germany, July 9. (A. P.)—A special school has been built here to train girls between 14 and 16 years of age in domestic science and practical nursing. The school is especially for girls whose fathers were killed in the war and whose mothers also are dead or, if living, in such straitened circumstances that they cannot give their daughters the necessary attention and education.

A large hospital adjacent to the school will cooperate and here during the mornings the practical experience in housework, cooking and baking, washing, ironing, sewing, gardening, orcharding, truck raising and cattle raising will be gained.

In the afternoon the girls will be instructed in civics, physiology, hygienics and other subjects.

Among the ancient peoples of the east there was a deep-rooted belief that a man's glory lay in his beard.

Coin Melted
For Its Copper

New York, July 9. (A. P.)—After circulating many of them for more than a century, in the Dutch East Indies, 233 tons of copper coins were unloaded here recently on their way to a smelting plant in New Jersey. Many bore the date of 1790; others were worn so smooth that their age could not be determined.

These symbols of the trade of a corner of the world that readers of English associate chiefly with the novels of Joseph Conrad soon will be transmuted into just copper, practically pure copper, however, worth about $280 a ton.

The coins were collected by the Dutch Government ten years ago when the old issues were recalled and replaced with new.

Base pay of commissioned naval officers below the rank of rear admiral ranges from $1500 to $4000.

There were 214,583 ministers and 47,401,588 church members in the United States last year.

COUNTRY CLUB IS PLANNING SPORT EVENTS

Annual Golf and Tennis Championship Contests Are on the Program

Opening of the annual handicap tournament of the Bismarck Town and Country Club, set for this week, and the annual open championship tournament in two weeks, were announced today by C. S. Haines, chairman of the club's golf committee. The honor of the winner's name being engraved on the club cups is awarded in each event.

An unusually large number of golfers will enter the handicap event, since there are more golfers on the local course this year than for several years. Handicaps are being figured to give every player an even chance to win out.

The Bismarck club probably will send several players to the state golf tournament in Fargo the second week in August.

A tennis tournament also will be held at the Country Club.

SCHOLZ WINS IN BRILLIANT OLYMPIC DASH

United States Moves Farther Ahead on Fourth Day of The World Games

(Additional results of Olympic games on sport page).

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France, July 9.—The brilliant victory of Jackson Scholz, the fleet-footed New York Athletic Club sprinter, for America in the 200-meter dash and the widening of the United States margin on points over Finland, despite the victory of Willie Kola, the flying Finn, in the 3,000 meter steeple chase, giving him the honor of the first double Olympic triumph, featured the fourth day of the 1924 Olympic track and field championship.

The point score was: United States 135, Finland 73.

WIN TRAP SHOOT
Paris, July 9.—The United States was the victor in the Olympic trap shooting event which ended today, piling up 15 points. Hungary was second with 10, Finland third with 9, Canada next with eight, and Belgium, Sweden and Australia following in order.

FIVE BANKERS ENTER PLEAS OF NOT GUILTY

Sioux Falls, S. D., July 9.—Pleas of not guilty to indictments charging them with violations of the state banking laws were entered in circuit court late yesterday by Frank H. Johnson, Don E. Johnson, Ted Johnson, D. M. Parrick and Carl Berry, officers of the closed Sioux Falls Trust & Savings Bank.

J. C. Cozad of Martin, S. D., indicted with them, entered his plea of not guilty last week. The court overruled demurrers to all the indictments, except one of those against Don E. Johnson, which will be resubmitted to the grand jury as soon as it convenes again.

Trial of the indicted bankers will take place at the next term of court in September, it was announced last night by State's Attorney Hugh S. Gamble. Mr. Gamble added that he would fight any attempt to delay action.

FORMER RAIL HEAD SLAYS WIFE AND SELF

Michigan City, Ind., July 9.—Charles N. Wilcoxon, 68, former president of the Chicago, Lake Shore and South Bend Railway company, operating between South Bend and Chicago, killed his wife, 70, with an axe, a razor and a potato masher, and then hung himself at their home at Long Beach some time Monday night. Their bodies were discovered last night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Vail, who reside in a cottage near the Wilcoxon home, and who visited them daily became alarmed when they did not see the couple yesterday and summoned officers who forced an entrance.

Mrs. Wilcoxon's body was found on the floor in a pool of blood at the foot of the bed, and that of her husband hanging from a rope in a clothes closet.

Mrs. Wilcoxon had been in ill health the last year. Wilcoxon had also been in poor health and this fact is believed to have been responsible for the killing and suicide.

"Two-in-One" Electric Engine Has Gear Shift

By simply shifting the gears, the "L-5," a powerful electric locomotive now in use on the Pennsylvania railroad, can be adapted for hauling an express or passenger train at a speed of 46 miles an hour, or thrown into "low," where it develops a starting tractive effort of 100,000 pounds, and will haul a heavy freight train at a 23-mile-an-hour clip. This "two-in-one" engine weighs 408,000 pounds and can be operated with direct or alternating current. It was assembled in a month's time, said to be a record for the Altoona shops of the railroad, and was exhibited in Philadelphia as the latest development in electric engines;

Testing Battery Polarity

A simple method of determining the polarity of a battery or cell, and at the same time roughly measuring its strength, is as follows: Dissolve 1 part of potassium iodide in 25 parts of water; place the solution in a shallow dish; soak several pieces of white blotting paper in it, then remove them and allow to dry. To use, moisten a piece of the prepared paper and touch it with wires leading from both poles of the battery, keeping them about 1/2 in. apart. A dark-brown spot will immediately be produced where the wire from the positive pole touches the blotter. A dead cell or battery will produce no spot. A little experience in judging the rapidity with which the spot is formed, and the shade of the color produced, will soon enable one to tell the condition of the battery fairly accurately, whether it is nearly dead, half charged, or fully charged. This method is applicable to both storage batteries and dry cells, although the wires must be further apart in the case of storage batteries.

Cleaning Crystals with Alcohol

The sensitiveness of a crystal determines to a great extent the receiving range of a set. Some crystals are much better than others in this respect, but even good ones are soon spoiled by improper care. Air causes the surface of the crystal to oxidize gradually, which of course decreases its efficiency. Dust particles in the air also lodge on the surface and adhere to it. The most trouble is, however, caused by handling the crystal, as the oil on the hands and fingers, which is imperceptible to the naked eye, insulates the surface of the crystal, and for this reason crystals should never be touched. An excellent method of cleaning crystals, which will in many cases restore the original sensitiveness, is to give them a bath in alcohol, using an old toothbrush to scrub them.

Salt Is Tougher than Steel

Strands of wire made from ordinary rock salt by a Russian chemist are reported to be tougher than those of steel. The inventor expects the process to aid in hardening and strengthening common metals, and believes that the treatment, if applied to other minerals, may result in materials that would permit moving machinery to travel at much greater speeds. The scientist is said to put raw rock salt under high heat pressures, thus changing its form and increasing its flexibility and strength.

Towing Small Boats

When the stream is flowing so fast or the wind blowing so hard that it is difficult to make headway by rowing, the simple stunt shown in the drawing offers an easy way of towing the boat along the bank or shore. Tie the boat line to both bow and stern, as shown. By paying out on the bow part of the line and holding in the stern line, the boat can be kept nearly parallel with the bank, while if only a bow line is used the current or wind will cause the bow to dig into the bank, making towing difficult. If a narrow creek is encountered, its mouth can be crossed in the boat as follows: Let out the bow and haul in the stern; this will cause the boat to lie close against the mouth. Fasten the towline to an oar pushed slantingly (toward the water) into the bank. After walking across the creek in the boat, the oar is pulled out, which can readily be done on account of the slant at which it is placed.

EXAMINATIONS FOR PRIZES TO BE ON JULY 15

Annual Examination to Decide the Winner of Winchester Prize

The examination which will decide the winner of the Walter H. Winchester memorial prize award to the Burleigh County pupil who shall excel in arithmetic, will be given at the Will school next Tuesday, July 15, with Miss Madge R. ney, county superintendent of schools, in charge.

Nine pupils completing the eighth grade in Burleigh county are chosen to take the examination, which is in arithmetic; six from the rural and village schools of the county, and three from the Bismarck schools. The pupils chosen are those showing the greatest proficiency in arithmetic.

In grading the papers the following points are considered: clearness of expression, showing arithmetical reasoning, accuracy and care in details, and neatness. The questions are prepared by some one chosen by the county superintendent, who together with the judges will not be announced until after the completion of the test.

The award, which is $25.00, is one which has been created in memory of Walter H. Winchester, who was a former county superintendent of schools in Burleigh county, and who during his long service as judge of the district court, never lost interest in the schools and edu-

DISTRICTS ARE CHANGED

Commissioners and Supt. Vote School District Changes

The boundaries of Painted Woods, Glen View and Riverview school districts were changed yesterday at a meeting of the county commissioners, the county superintendent and representatives from the districts, Walter Simons, Will Larson, Frank Simon, Karl Engelman and Albin Erstrom, all of Baldwin.

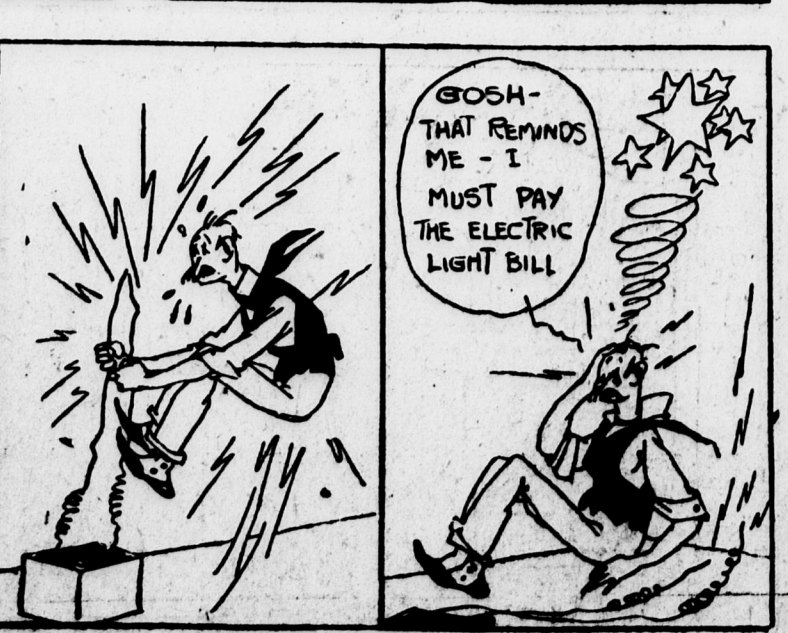

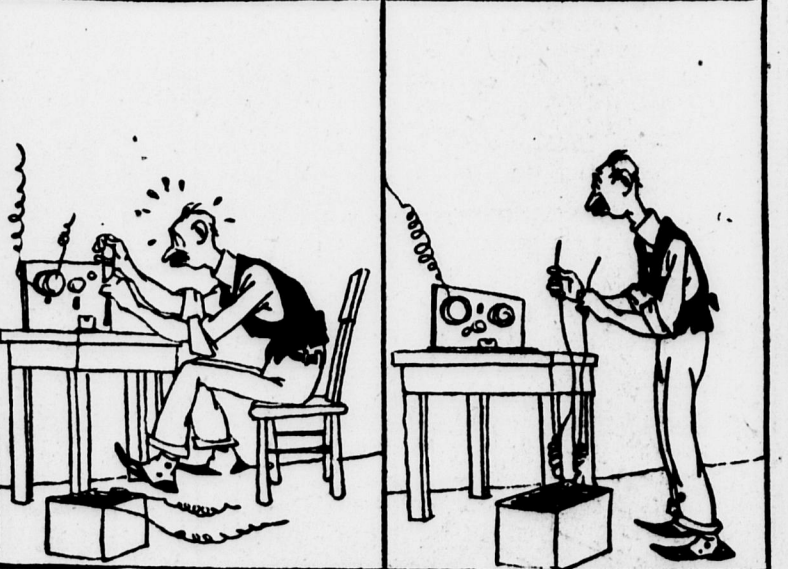

A part of Riverview, almost cut off from the district by the river, was annexed to Painted Woods, and a similar section at the opposite end was added to Glen View. The change was made with a view of improving the school facilities in the sections cut off by the river, which have been somewhat isolated heretofore.

PROSECUTION OF MANY OIL FIRMS, PLAN

Attorney-General Stone Announces Intention at American Bar Meeting

Philadelphia, July 9.—Attorney General E. A. Tamm, addressing the annual convention of the American Bar Association last night, declared that "notwithstanding the improvement actual and potential, in our static law," the actual administration of justice in the United States was not improving and that there was multiplying evidence that it was in a period of decline, which began before the world war and was greatly accelerated by the war. "That decline," he said, "is not due either to the form or substance of our legal structure, which has been steadily improving for a generation, but it is to be attributed rather to our failure to develop that facility in translating legal rules into actual control of action which is essential to an adequate legal system."

Mr. Tamm said that the American Bar should take a positive leadership for improvement of law administration. "Mr. Tamm announced he would meet today in Washington with a committee from the National Association of States Attorneys General to outline a course of procedure in the prosecution of more than 50 oil companies under the anti-trust law."

JEWETT QUILTS WHEAT POOL

Minneapolis, July 9.—George C. Jewett, general manager of the American Wheat Growers Association since its organization in 1920, tendered his resignation yesterday to the board of directors, effective as of July 1, last.

W. J. Brown, president of the organization, will have active charge of the association's affairs until the directors select a successor to Mr. Jewett. Forty million bushels of wheat, or an increase of 100 percent over the 20,000,000 bushels of the 1923 crop handled, will be gathered for sale in the organization's pool of the 1924 crop, according to an estimate by Mr. Brown.

President Brown said the association had just finished distributing the last $50,000 of a $4,000,000 payment to Montana wheat farmers for their 1923 yield and that distribution of payments to Minnesota farmers is to be completed this month.

The current year has been marked by a phenomenal growth in membership, said Mr. Brown. States represented in the organization include Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Washington, Oregon, Colorado and Nebraska.

ALLIES TURN DOWN GERMAN ARMS REQUEST

Declines to Cease Control of Her Armaments on September 30, as Asked

Paris, July 9. (By the A. P.)—Germany's request that the inter-allied control of her armaments cease on September 30 was denied by the allied council of ambassadors in a note handed to the German ambassador last evening, it was announced today.

Satisfaction was expressed, however, that the Germans had agreed to the main points demanded by the council—the resumption of the control commission activities.

The ambassador's note informed Germany that the accession of control would depend entirely on the satisfactory results of the commission's work and on German compliance with the five requirements made of her previously regarding disarmament. The method of disarmament inspection would be determined by the inter-allied control commission, the note set forth, and any suggestions the Germans wish to offer would be considered.
